Get Your New Model
Cheerful Chicago
Too Many Marines Shot Beer, Perhaps

—By Arthur Brisbane—

NEW YORK starts its annual automobile show, and other great cities will soon do so. See the new cars, select your model, don't be easily persuaded that you can't afford a car.

An automobile is an investment in pleasure for all the family, in power to see and know your own country, and an investment that adds to life by making time more valuable.

It isn't how many hours you have but how much you can do in one hour that decides life's value.

A Galapagos turtle lives 900 years. But he couldn't see in 9,000,000 years as much as a man with a car can see in a week.

Chicago would like the rest of the world to know that it starts 1931 cheerfully. That spot, 100 years ago an Indian trading post, now includes real estate that, according to the Chicago Herald Examiner, "exceeds the entire wealth of Switzerland, Chile and New Zealand, and is greater than the wealth of all the Netherlands by one billion dollars."

In 1931, Illinois will pay $800,000,000 wages to 500,000 factory workers, and sell to the world $3,000,000,000 worth of manufactured goods. It will spend $400,000,000 on new buildings.

Revolution in Panama drives out the President, and kills 10. Revolutions seem to be fashionable with our friends farther south. But that is their business, not ours. As long as they do not interfere with us, we should not interfere with them.

News from Nicaragua is our business. Rebels there killed eight American marines, making 57 marines killed by Nicaraguans in the past four years.

Just why our marines were there, our government knows. The original proposition was that they would stay and help police the country until the new Nicaraguan government became established. It seems to have taken a long time to become established.

Senator King, of Utah, wants our marines brought out immediately, and says we are "using bayonets to hold up the investments of our capitalists."

No matter what we have been doing, something should be done now to persuade Nicaraguans responsible that it is a mistake to ambush and shoot American marines that were not shooting anybody.

Next Tuesday you may hear from the Wickersham committee that has been discussing beer and such things.

The President will be told, according to prediction, that the commission would not repeal prohibition, but would get around it. They would advise modifying the Volstead act by opening the way for "beer, non-intoxicating in fact."

Perhaps the state will decide what kind of beer is "non-intoxicating in fact," in which case some states will have excellent beer.

Mussolini's talk on the radio, for which he learned how to make a speech in English, produces an excellent effect. Even the French believe in the sincerity of his statement:

"I fought in the war as a common soldier in the ranks, and would never let Italy initiate a war that would imperil whole populations, without the possibility of defense."

Whatever future history may say of Mussolini it must admit that his country was fortunate in getting him as ruler at a time when the choice was dictatorship or chaos.

If you judged man by his past, full of murder, cheating, cannibalism, brutality, selfishness, you wouldn't hope much for his future. He must be judged by his progress.

William F. Ogburn, University of Chicago, says that man of the future may remain a child until 40 years old. Many do that now, and long after 40.

Dr. Ogburn thinks morality, as we understand it, will disappear and law will become less and less important. He is not so taken about morality. Respect for law will be inborn, so that men will do what they ought to do as ants and bees do now, being millions of years older than we are.

In the year 2500, according to Dr. East of Harvard, the earth will be inhabited by one hybrid race, a mixture of all races, stabilized and permanent. That.

AGED HERO OF MARNE DIES WHILE IN COMA

PICTURES ON PAGES 2 AND 3

Paris, Jan. 3 (AP)—Death came today to Marshal Joffre, last of the chief French military leaders of the great war, after a fortnight's illness during which it was necessary to amputate his left leg. The marshal would have been 79 years old this month.

The end was peaceful. Three members of his family, Mme. Joffre; his son-in-law, M. Laflie, and his brother, Ferdinand; Gen. Issaly, his chief of staff; Col. Desmazes of his staff; his doctors, and a few others were present. He died without coming out of the coma into which he fell at noon Thursday.

The announcement of the passing of the old warrior was made at 8:30 a. m. A member of his military household, Capt. Saint Cernin, pale with emotion, emerged from the hospital and in a husky voice said to the newspapermen:

"The Marshal is dead, gentlemen."

He displayed a bulletin signed by the physicians, Prof. Leriche and Drs. Boulin and Fontaine, which set the end at 8:23 a. m.

IN COMA A WEEK

Shortly afterward Prof. Leriche, Strassbourg specialist, who came to Paris to treat the ailment which finally cut the Marshal's life short, appeared and informed the newspapermen of the circumstances of death, added that the marshal had been in a state of coma practically all this week except for rare intervals of five or ten minutes' lucidity.

Despite the early hour, a crowd already had assembled outside the hospital St. Jean de Dieu, where the marshal had lain for two weeks.

When information of the death was passed to the newspapermen the word "mort"—death—passed through the crowd. Men bared their heads and women made the sign of the cross.

The news spread rapidly through Paris, where death had been expected for more than a week. Bells tolled and official circles made preparations for honors in death due the man who in 1914 turned back the invading Germans from the very gates of Paris in the epic battle of the Marne.

MME. JOFFRE AT SIDE

At 7 a. m. today Dr. Fontaine, feeling the pulse of the dying Marshal, became convinced that death could be a question of only a very short period of time. Urgent telephone messages were sent to the family and friends and members of the general staff, who gathered about the bed.

Mme. Joffre knelt beside the re-

3 SOMERVILLE FIREMEN OUT

Three Somerville firemen, members of the double company of Ladder 4 and Hose 7 on Highland avenue, that city, have been suspended from duty, pending charges of refusing to respond to an alarm, it was learned today. The charges will be placed before Mayor John J. Murphy and the three firemen will be given a hearing sometime the coming week.

The suspension is a result of an alleged fracas between the men and the lieutenant in charge of the truck when an alarm sounded early New Year's morning. After the fire was extinguished, District Chief Young visited the fire house and investigated the report submitted by the two lieutenants in the house. The district chief's report was turned over to Chief Cribby, who, it is said, will file charges against them with Mayor Murphy.

Carideo Denies Plan to Wed Film Actress

Newcastle, Pa., Jan. 3 (AP)—Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's all-American quarterback, today termed an announcement of Miss Nina Quartero, motion picture actress, at Beverly Hills, Cal., that she was to marry him "a cheap attempt to get cheap advertising."

Carideo said the actress had taken advantage of the fact that they both had lived in Mount Vernon, N. Y., and they were acquainted there.

MILTON BOY, 15, VANISHES WHEN REPRIMANDED

Leaves Note for His Parents Saying He'll Come Back When He Makes Good

Private detectives and the police of several states today were searching for a 15-year-old Milton Academy student, who mysteriously disappeared last night after having been reprimanded by his parents.

He is John Hinchman, son of Prof. and Mrs. Walter S. Hinchman of 501 Randolph ave., Milton. Prof. Hinchman teaches at Milton Academy.

"I am going away. Don't look for me. I won't return until I make good."

It was learned that young Hinchman was reprimanded by his mother for failure to study. At 8:30 o'clock he kissed his father and mother good-night. At 9 o'clock a nurse in the Hinchman home saw him depart from the back door, clad in a blue denim suit.

It is believed young Hinchman is either on his way to Toronto, Can., where he has an uncle, or headed for the West.

He is described as being rather large for his age, weighing 163 pounds, and being six feet three inches tall. He has a scar on his chin. His parents said he had $20 with him prior to his disappearance.

Amy Johnson Flies Into Berlin Hour Late

Berlin, Jan. 3 (INS)—Miss Amy Johnson, intrepid young British aviatrix, landed at Tempelhof Field from Cologne at 5:30 p. m. today (11:30 E. S. T.). She is flying alone from London to Peiping.

Some anxiety had been felt for Miss Johnson, as she was more than an hour overdue and was feared to have been forced down by snow storms en route.

TWO KILLED AS TRAIN CRASHES INTO AUTO

Joseph A. Marshall, a Belmont Teacher, and Youth Die in a Collision at Woolwich, Me.

Death ended the Christmas holidays of a Belmont school teacher and a college youth today when a Maine Central railroad train crashed into their automobile on the Montsweag crossing near Woolwich, Me.

Three other youths were seriously injured. All were students at the Oxford Business College in Cambridge.

The dead:

MARSHALL, Joseph A., 33, of 333Main st., Charlestown, teacher at the Belmont junior high school.

WALKER, Harry, of Camden, Me.

3 HURT IN CRASH.

The injured are Sherman Mitchell, Orion Wardsworth and David Rockett, all of Camden. They are at the Bath hospital at Bath, Me.

They were all en route to Boston, having been invited by Marshall owner and driver of the machine, to ride back with him at the close of their vacations.

Marshall's wife was in Boston, awaiting his return, and was at a bank, cashing her own pay check, and making plans for welcoming him home, when she learned of his death.

LEFT HUSBAND IN MAINE

Mrs. Marshall had accompanied her husband to his mother's home at Camden two days before Christmas, but had returned several days ago to resume her position with a fireworks manufacturing concern, leaving him to finish his holidays with his mother.

The couple formerly lived at Reading, but moved to Boston a few months ago so that both would be nearer their work.

Doctors at the hospital said that of the injured, Mitchell's condition was the most serious. The others, although badly cut and bruised, are expected to recover.

S. S. Panamerica, Jan. 3 (AP)—The monoplane Tradewind, flying from New York to Paris with a pay load, passed over the steamship Panamerica at 10:45 a. m. (E. S. T.) today, flying fast and low. The ship's position at that time was latitude 36 and longitude 68.40—about 390 miles southeast of New York.

North Beach, N. Y., Jan. 3 (INS)—A pony express plane, carrying a "pay load," shot away for Paris at 5:55 a. m. today.

It was ridden by an ex-navy officer and a flying widow with red hair—Bill MacLaren and Beryl Hart. He taught her to fly.

They plan to stop for refueling their monoplane at Bermuda and the Azores. Their aim is to show the feasibility of a regular transatlantic mail and express airplane service over the southern route.

Although weather conditions along the 4,345-mile air route from New York to Paris were dead against them, they insisted on taking off. They had been waiting since September.

MacLaren and Mrs. Hart have named their plane Trade Wind.

AWAY INTO DARKNESS.

The white plane rose from the waters of Bowery bay, an indentation of the East river, and streaked away into the darkness toward Bermuda. Capt. MacLaren said they expected to make the tropical island in eight hours. The distance is about 775 miles.

MacLaren was at the controls of Albany, Jan. 3 (US)—An insurgency in Democratic ranks against what is interpreted as Gov. Roosevelt's determination to dominate the state organization was seen yesterday in the announcement of Edward J. O'Connell, Albany county leader, that he would support Alfred E. Smith for President in 1932.

6 SAVED IN FIRE AT DORCHESTER

City Councillor Israel Ruby, his wife, three children and their maid were carried to safety over ladders today as a two-alarm fire swept through the three-story, brick apartment block at 102-112 Talbot ave, Dorchester.

Twenty-one persons in all were driven out by the smoke and flames, including 10 children. It was the second fire within a week in the apartment house.

Ruby opened the door to find his family trapped by the flames. He went to a window and his shouts attracted members of Ladder 23, who went to the aid of the family.

Under the leadership of Lieut. William McGrath, the firemen placed ladders to the windows and carried down first the three children, Inez, 2, Arabelle, 8, and George, 12, and then Mrs. Ruby and the maid, Miss Myrtle Brown, and finally Councillor Ruby.

The other occupants, most of whom were aroused by Patrolman Joseph Duncan, fled to the street through smoke-filled corridors.

Among them were Lillian Hecht, who saved her pet dog; Rita Goren, a child of 22 months; Dorothy Boloff, seven; Catherine Shanun, Sadie Lipman and Sophie Lipman. All were given shelter by neighbors.

The loss was estimated at $5000. The cause of the fire was not determined.

3 Killed in Train Wreck

Carlisle, Eng., Jan. 3 (AP)—Three persons were killed and 12 injured when the noon express from Edinburgh to London jumped a switch near here today and rolled down an embankment.

SIX SAVE SELVES AS SHIP SINKS

Bath, Me., Jan. 3 (AP)—The captain and crew of five of the fishing schooner Angie Mary of Gloucester escaped in dories last night when the boat struck a submerged object 15 miles of Seguin light and sank, it was learned today.

The menrowed ashore, landing at Small oPint, near Popham Beach, shortly after midnight.

Capt. Ban Fabazza said the 71-foot auxiliary fisherman was traveling at full speed, making about nine knots, when she struck an object. Her bow was crushed in and the crew found the pumps could not aid.

They took to the boats and saw the Angie Mary sink as they pulled away. The Angie Mary had 2000 pounds of fish aboard and was making for home after working along the Maine coast for two days.

The members of the crew were Edward and Vito Tocco, brothers; Sam Leggieri, Joe Balbo and Joe Fulo, all of Gloucester.

cumbent form of her husband, and Chaplain Bellesseur, after administering absolution at 8 a. m., went quietly and knelt in a corner of the room, still murmuring his prayers for the dying. Dr. Fontaine continued to hold the wrist of the Marshal.

Slowly he counted the pulsations and then amid a solemn hush broken only by the priest's frequent intonements, the marshal's great heart beat swiftly and then, stopped altogether. This time there was no mistaking the end. It was death itself.

The marshal's face took on its customary serenity, lying white and placid upon the pillow. The deep lines which marked it like some map of battle, however, were ample evidence of the effects of the great battle the marshal had fought, his last earthly conflict and one in which he was doomed to defeat from the start.

At 11 a. m. the body of the marshal reposed on the simple camp bed of a soldier. It was clothed in white dolman with the golden buttoned uniform worn in the colonies, where much of the dead man's pre-war military fame was won. The hands were crossed, two candles were burning on a small table beside the bed, and two nuns knelt nearby praying.

LAST THOUGHT OF ARMY

Marshal Joffre will be buried in a national funeral as elaborate as that tendered his illustrious colleague, Marshal Foch, but his body will not lie in state under the Arc de Triomphe.

The marshal himself had said he did not wish to be the cause of his troops and the people of Paris risking their health in the Paris winter to do him honor.

The cabinet arranged the funeral services at a special session this morning. It was disclosed that while he was still alive the Marshal had expressed a desire to be buried at Louveciennes, his country home.

Louis Barthou, Minister of War and a close friend of the Marshal, told the cabinet that Madame Joffre was as anxious as her husband had been that the funeral be held without fatiguing either the army or the people of Paris.

The members of the Government deferred to this request in some respects, but decided that the body will pass under the Arc de Triomphe on the way to Notre Dame Cathedral and will rest for a moment before the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Throughout Paris and all of France today the flags on public buildings fluttered at half-staff.

VETERANS TO VIEW BODY

The body will live in state in the chapel of the military school near the Eiffel tower on Monday and Tuesday from 7 in the morning until 9 in the evening. The funeral services will begin on Wednesday at 9 a. m. The soldiers who fought under Marshal Joffre at the Marne will march past the body at the Invalides.

Louis Barthou will be the only funeral orator. He will speak in the name of the government and of the French Academy.

M. Barthou today issued to the French army this message:

"The minister of war wishes to notify the Army of France that it has suffered a great loss. Marshal Joffre is dead. He saved France on the Marne. He broke the power of the enemy. The force of his soul, his indomitable energy and his never-ending services made that final victory possible."

RANKS THINNING

Marshal Joffre's death removes from the world stage all except three of the great military leaders of the World War. They are Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Gen Erich Ludendorff of Germany and Gen. John J. Pershing of the United States. Of the French leaders of note only Marshal Petain, defender of Verdun, is alive, but unlike Foch or Joffre, he never was in supreme command of a French armies. One by one, Haig, Diaz, Foch and others have passed from the scene in death.

Marshal Joffre's final illness dated back many weeks, when, complaining of a pain in his leg, his doctors found him a victim of arteritis. In his case the disease causes an inflammation of the arteries, settled in his legs and eventually a gangrenous condition developed which necessitated amputation of the left leg.

On December 18 he was taken secretly in his own cabriolet to the Hospital Val-de-Grace, Le Dieu and that night, under the influence of only local anasthesia, he submitted to amputation, which was made at mid-thigh of the leg. He would not take ether, informing the physicians, "Prof. Lericke, Dr. Boulin and Dr. Fontaine, that he desired to see what they were doing to him.

ILLNESS KEPT SECRET

The fact of the Marshal's illness did not become known until the following week, when his doctors let it be known they had no hope for him and did not expect him to live more than a day or so at the most.

Despite their pessimism the old soldier survived, much of the time in coma or semi-consciousness, his heart refusing to succumb.

He gradually weakened after astonishing the physicians with his resistance. He lived for days after they had stated that he had only hours or even minutes more of life. On New Year's Day he lapsed into the final coma from which he never recovered and at one time that day was so low that a false announcement of his death was made, only to be retracted an hour later after having been spread over all the world.

The marshal was kept alive during the last few days by injections of heavy doses of a serum which his physicians prepared. Had he been able to stand another operation his right leg also would have been amputated.

Joffre Both Admired and Loved, Says Dawes

Paris, Jan. 3 (AP)—Brig-Gen. Charles G. Dawes, United States ambassador at London, who was associated with Marshal Joffre during the war as a member of the A. E. F., today expressed his regret at passing of his old comrade in arms. Gen. Dawes was one of the last persons to see the marshal alive.

"Associated with the name of Marshal Joffre," he said, "are some of the most important and glorious memories of the allied cause. In times of crisis such men find their way deeply into the hopes and fears of distressed humanity to a lasting memory.

"It is a tribute to Marshal Joffre that to general admiration is added a deep affection. Calmness, modesty, chivalry, faith and devotion to his cause ever characterized him. Marshal Joffre becomes one of the world's immortals."

Good Comrade, Loyal Ally, Says Robertson

London, Jan. 3. (AP)—Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, associated with Marshal Joffre in the Allied Councils during the first two years of the war paid tribute today to him as a tower of strength, a good comrade, and a loyal Ally.

"He was most invaluable as a man and a commander when adversity was worst," he said. "His memory always will be held in high regard by those British troops who fought in France in the early years of the war and especially by the 'old contemptibles' who were under his care when the full brunt of the German onslaught had to be borne.

"Personally I like to remember him for what he was—a good comrade, and a loyal Ally."

Summerall Praises Joffre as Strategist

Eustis, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP)—The American army regarded Marshal Joffre as "one of the ablest strategists and leaders of men of all time," Gen. Charles P. Summerall, retired, said here today.

"His contribution to the plan of campaign," said Gen. Summerall, "had a permanent influence upon the conduct of the war, and his wisdom laid the foundation for ultimate success."

Joffre Won Glory in Field Despite Bitter Jealousy of Leaders

Paris, Jan. 3 (INS)—The death of Joseph Jacques Cesaire Joffre, marshal of France, removes another of the brilliant international coterie of military strategists whose lives from 1914 to 1918 were intertwined with the history of the World War.

Jealous of his high authority, resolved to act in what he believed to be the best interests of France in spite of military and political intrigues that badgered him almost from the very outbreak of hostilities, Joffre won himself an immortal place along with the greatest warriors of France's history, first at the Marne and then at Verdun.

Marshal Joffre was born Jan. 12, 1852, in the little town of Rivesaltes, on the edge of the Eastern Pyrenees.

According to tradition preserved in his family, his line was originally Spanish and noble, and his proper name is Goffre. The marshal's great-grandfather fled from Spain for political reasons, settled in Rivesaltes and changed his name to Joffre.

FATHER A COOPER

The grandson of this first Joffre was a cooper by trade. He had 11 children, one of them destined to be the victor of the Marne.

Joseph showed military tendencies at an early age, and was sent to study at the Ecole Polytechnique, the West Point of France. His studies were interrupted by service in the Franco-Prussian war, but he returned and was graduated. He then entered the engineers, working on the fortifications of Paris for several years, and the rapidity of his rise is shown by the fact he was promoted to a captaincy at 28.

Marshall Joffre delighted to tell of his service in the Franco-Prussian war, for he had entered the military school at the age of 17 far younger than most of his schoolmates.

SORROWS FOR WIFE

It was in 1885 that Joffre's brilliant career as a Colonial soldier began. Saddened by the death of his young wife, he applied for a transfer to Indo-China, serving three years at Hanoi. Returning to France in 1888, he joined the railway regiment, and in 1892 departed again for distant climes.

His engineering feat in building a railway through swamps, marshes and jungles from Kayes to Bafoulabe in Senegal, earned him national recognition, and he was honored with the chair of fortifications at the military school for officers at Fontainbleau.

Joffre was appointed a general of brigade in 1903, general of division in 1905, and after commanding the second army corps at Amiens was appointed to the Supreme Council of War in 1910.

The following year he became chief of staff, a position tantamount to commander-in-chief in time of war, and for three years exercised supreme control over the army.

The nations of Europe had been playing their dangerous game of battledore and shuttlecock for years, and early in 1913, Joffre had laid a plan of campaign before the Council of War. Hostilities was declared on August 3, 1914, and two days later Joffre took over the post of commander-in-chief of the French armies.

At the beginning, the superb strategy and military genius of Joffre triumphed. After vainly attempting to rout the flank of the advancing Germans, Joffre was forced to withdraw his left wing, but resuming the offensive on Sept. 6, pushed the Germans back to the Aisne in the never-to-be-forgotten battle of the Marne. He then held the French line on the Yser, but failed in attempts to break the German front in Champagne, Artois and in the Woevre.

STRIPPED OF COMMAND

These setbacks resulted in a concerted campaign against the commander-in-chief by the friends of Gen. Galliani, who succeeded general headquarters of stealing glory for the victory of the Marne, and by supporters of Gen. Sarrail, whom Joffre had stripped of his command.

Millerand, then Minister of War, steadfastly backed Joffre, but a political turnover in October, 1915, placed Galliani in the war ministry. Joffre's command was reduced, but when the second and crucial battle of the Marne came his magnificent generalship won for him, despite all intrigue and rivalry, supreme command of the French armies.

Rivalry, however, continued through 1915 and 1916, Joffre profiting by the resignation of Galliani early in 1916, but his personal quarrel with Sarrail continued. Joffre's complete command of the armies was questioned in the French Senate, and, after lengthy arguments, he was relieved of the supreme command and the offices of technical adviser to the armies, but as compensation was created a marshal of France.

AMONG IMMORTALS

That appointment marked Joffre's retirement from active supervision in French general headquarters. Marshal Ferdinand Foch was later given the high command as generalissimo of all the Allied armies.

It was after taking his seat in the French Academy as one of the "Forty Immortals" in 1918, that Joffre uttered the memorable statement that summed up his whole life and aims in a few simple words.

The academy was gravely discussing the proper word to include in the dictionary as a synonym for "beaten," and one of the members had suggested "defeatism."

"Gentlemen," said Marshal Joffre, rising from his chair, "in the French dictionary there is no such word as defeatism."

During the latter years of his life Joffre traveled but little. At the conclusion of the war he accompanied Marshal Foch on a triumphant visit to the United States, and in 1925 journeyed to Brussels to arrange for publication of his memoirs. With the exception of those two trips, his only journeys were between his apartment in Paris and a villa in the south of France, where for several years he had spent the rigorous winter months.

King George and Gouraud Pay Tribute to Joffre

French General Tells How the Commander Prepared for Great Victory

Paris, Jan. 3 (AP)—History will record of Marshal Joffre as one of the great saviors of France, Gen. Gouraud, military governor of Paris, who lost an arm in the World War, said today as news of the marshal's death reached him.

"In learning this sorrowful news," said he, "France lives again the days of 1914 when surprised by war, she placed all her hope in the army.

"The stemming the victory of the Marne gave to France and the world the name of Joffre.

"In stemming the march of the enemy in 1914 and again at Verdun in 1916, in weakening the iron ramparts behind which the enemy was ranged at Artois and Champagne, Marshal Joffre prepared for the great final victory."

British Monarch Treasures Memory of His Meetings With Great Marshal

London, Jan. 3 (AP)—King George today sent the following message of sympathy for Marshal Joffre's death to President Doumergue of France:

"I join with my people in expressing heartfelt sympathy in the death of Marshal Joffre. The sad news will arouse feelings of sorrow especially in those countries which in 1914 were allied to France.

"We shall mourn the death of him who in those momentous days was called to the supreme command of the great French army with which for four long years the forces of the British Empire were comrades in arms.

"I treasure the memory of meetings with Marshal Joffre on the occasion of my several visits to the front."

HOOVER GRIEVES WITH PERSHING FOR JOFFRE

President, War Commander, Stimson Laud Marshal; Cable U. S. Condolence

Washington, Jan. 3 (INS)—The death of Marshal Joffre, while expected, caused genuine regret in Washington today, for the old soldier had always been held in warm personal esteem by officials here since his memorable visit in the spring of 1917.

Gen. John J. Pershing and Secretary of State Stimson also sent messages of condolence.

President Hoover's message said:

"To His Excellency Monsieur Gaston Domergue, president of the French Republic: I am distressed by the news of the death of Marshal Joffre, who is so affectionately remembered by the American people. Both in their name and personally I want to express to your Excellency the sorrow which is felt in this country at the passing of this great patriot."

PERSHING FEELS LOSS

Gen. Pershing said:

"In the death of Marshal Joffre the world loses one of the outstanding military figures and France a devoted patriot. His conduct of operations as commander of the French Army from the beginning of the World War to the end of 1916 was characterized by great leadership. He had the unlimited confidence of the French soldier and knew how to appeal to his patriotism.

"As 'The Rock of the Marne' he saved the allies from defeat. Under the most trying circumstances, he never lost his calm demeanor.

"He had a deep friendship for America. My association with him was always most delightful I was honored to call him my friend. His passing leaves me with a keen sense of personal loss."

U. S. MOURNS, TOO

Secretary Stimson instructed the embassy in Paris to convey a message of sympathy on behalf of the American government and the secretary himself to the French minister of foreign affairs.

"I join in your sorrow and that of the French people," he read, "at the death of Marshal Joffre, who was so well known and loved in this country. Please accept this expression of condolence and deepest sympathy in your great loss on behalf both of this government and myself."

Joffre, of Spanish Line, Mourned in Spain

Madrid, Jan. 3 (AP)—Death of Marshal Joffre today has aroused profound sorrow in Spain, where the aged French soldier always was looked upon with particular affection because of his Spanish ancestry.

The King and the Premier today sent telegrams of condolence to the family and the French government.

FLAGS HERE GO TO HALF-STAFF FOR JOFFRE

Mayor Curley Issues Order; Cables Widow of Marshal His Sympathy

Flags on all public buildings in Boston were placed at half-staff today as a mark of respect for Marshal Joffre, by orders of Mayor James M. Curley to Superintendent of Public Buildings John P. Englert.

"I mourn with the whole world the passing into the eternal life of your revered husband, one of the most illustrious sons of France. I welcomed him as mayor of Boston in May, 1917, when he issued his masterly appeal to the people of the United States to join France in the hour of her emergency and recalled to us the service of the Marquise de Lafayette to the American nation in a similar cause in 1777.

"Our country's reply to Marshal Joffre was given when the flower of our youth to the number of 1,500,000 were engaged in the Meuse-Argonne battle which lasted for 47 days. May Almighty God grant eternal rest to the soul of the heroic marshal."

The mayor addressed a message of condolence to J. C. Joseph Flamand, French consul at Boston.

It read:

"I pray you will express to the French government my profound sense of sorrow and sympathy in the passing of the militant, heroic figure of Marshal Joseph Jacques Cesaire Joffre of France.

Bostonians Who Knew Him Laud Joffre as Leader

Leaders in military, naval and civic affairs, some of whom served with him in the closing days of the World War, today joined in mourning the death of Marshal Joffre.

From Greater Boston cables of condolence were being sent to Mme. Joffre and other members of the famous military general's family in Paris.

Gov. Allen sent the following cablegram to Marshal Joffre's widow:

"On behalf of the people of Massachusetts I hasten to convey deep sympathy in the passing of Marshal Joffre. We still recall with much affection and respect his historic visit to this Commonwealth. I assure you that we feel deeply indeed for you and the French nation in the great sorrow which has come upon you."

MAJ.-GEN. FOX CONNER, commanding officer of the First Corps Area: All American officers deeply regret the passing of the great marshal of France. It was my privilege to have known him personally. His calm steadfastness was an inspiration to every soldier. He met the end with the same serenity with which he met every crisis of the war.

MAJ.-GEN. E. LEROY SWEETSER: We all regret the passing of Marshal Joffre. Another soldier of France has answered the last roll call. I met Marshal Joffre during his visit to France and was much impressed by his patriotism for his own country.

MAJ.-GEN. CLARENCE R. EDWARDS: Joffre was a great soldier. His patience won the first battle of the Marne. He had the patience of our beloved Abraham Lincoln. Joffre, during the first battle of the Marne, kept drawing back, drawing back, with marvelous patience, and after the Germans were strung out he threw in another army and that won the first battle of the Marne. He was a great soldier.

J. C. JOSEPH FLAMAND, French Consul at Boston: Before Joffre became supreme commander, the French army was retreating along the entire front. France was in need of a man who was a strategist, cool calm and collected—a man who could take the army and organize it in order that the Germans would not get to Paris. Millerand, minister of war, thought Joffre was the man. Joffre was called on and he acquitted himself in the great task of not only stopping the retreat but in driving the enemy back a great distance from Paris. This was the first Battle of the Marne. Joffre, like many other great men, did not wish to obtain credit himself but gave it to the French soldiers. He was always a modest man. Born in moderate circumstances he became great and died great, a great soldier, savior of France. His memory is cherished by all French people and others who came in contact with him.

LIEUT. COL. WILLIAM J. BLAKE, Sectional Director of the U. S. Veterans Bureau: The passing of Marshal Joffre, who stopped the enemy at the gates of Paris, removes from life, not only an outstanding hero of the World War but a citizen of France who, to those of us familiar with its people, represented in his life that character of patience and courage in calmly sustaining reverses until the time comes to strike, which has made that nation great.

Eighteen months ago she remade "Peacock Alley" a silent picture in which she had starred, into a talkie. Her contract called for two more talkies which were not made and over which she is suing. For more than a year she has been appearing in vaudeville.

Society Woman Picks Cast for Palm Beach Play

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 3 (AP)—Nine actors and actresses delved into manuscripts here today as they prepared for the inauguration of the Palm Beach Play House, established by Muriel McCormick, of Chicago, and a staff of associates.

Muriel McCormick

They studied the lines of "Mr. Pim Passes By," the first vehicle for the 299 seat theater, which is to be dedicated the week of Jan. 12.

Names of the cast to be used in a week run of the theater this winter were made public by Miss McCormick. They are George Cotton, Aleta Freel, Arthur Gould-Porter, Harry Mestayer, Mollie Hicks, Madeline King, Agnes Elliott Scott, Sheppard Strudwick and Ernest Woodward. The playhouse will have a ticket price list ranging from $1, to $3.50, under the administration plan as outlined by Miss McCormick, and will be open to the public.

Queen Helen Returns From Visit to Sick Son

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 3 (AP)—Queen Helen, estranged wife of King Carol, returned to the palace at Bucharest today after a hurried mission of maternal love at the bedside of Prince Michael, her son by Carol at Sinaia.

It had been hoped when she left Paris yesterday she would meet Carol in the princely sick room, but her return here today was accepted as an indication that if they met there was no reconciliation and they will continue their separate paths.

Michael's illness is described as a cold. Although Carol has sought to keep her from Michael, Queen Helen's journey of this illness went immediately to Sinaia, where he and Carol are staying.

TWO MARINES WOUNDED IN SKIRMISH WITH NICARAGUA REBELS

BOTH TAKEN TO MANAGUA BY PLANE

Senators and Others Plan a Battle to Force U. S. to Withdraw Troops

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 3 (AP)—Two United States marines were seriously wounded today in a skirmish with Insurgents in the interior. The men were brought here by airplane.

On Thursday eight marines were killed and four wounded in a skirmish with insurgents believed to have been commanded by a lieutenant of the insurgent general Agustino Sandino.

Since then marine patrols have been searching for the band which made that attack from ambush.

U. S. Nicaragua Policy Faces Stormy Attack

Washington, Jan. 3 (INS)—America's Nicaraguan policy was in for a severe buffeting as an epilogue to the killing of eight marines in a skirmish with bandits near Ocotal, Nicaragua, December 31, it appeared today.

The various elements which, since the United States sent marines to Nicaragua to supervise elections in 1927, have been demanding withdrawal of troops, almost en masse demanded action.

The Women's International League for Peace addressed an appeal to the White House for relinquishment of a policy it termed unintelligent and unethical.

And a number of Senators were reported rallying to the renewed move of Senator King (D.) of Utah for adoption by Congress of a resolution calling on the President to bring the marines back from Nicaragua.

King said the United States should withdraw physically and politically from Nicaragua.

An attempt may also be made by the Senate insurgent group to cut off further appropriations for the maintenance of marines there. This would have the effect of ending participation by this country in Nicaraguan affairs.

Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, also said today that the marines should be pulled out of Nicaragua.

"I am of opinion," said Borah, "as I have always been, that we ought not be in there."

Sergt. Pairang Former Charlestown Resident

Sergt. Arthur Pairang, Jr., one of the marines killed by Nicaraguan bandits, lived at 26 Cross st., Charlestown, about 15 years, it was recalled yesterday by Frank Van-Wart, of 22 Cross st.

Pairang's father was employed in the engineering department of the navy yard.

Grain Jump Near, Says Australian

Winnipeg, Jan. 3 (AP)—Parker J. Moloney, Australian minister of markets and transport, expressed the opinion here today that the wheat markets of the world have reached their bottom.

"A rising market," he said, "will not be long delayed."

Grand Opera Whoopee Wins Big Applause in New York

New York, Jan. 3 (INS)—The glittering diamond horseshoe of the Metropolitan Opera could scarcely believe its jewel-laden ears last night when it heard such words as "whoopee," "Sweet Adeline" and "get that feller" punctuating the German libretto of Suppe's "Boccaccio."

Mr. Gatti-Casazza began the New Year by permitting Madame Jeritza and Herr Walter Kirchhoff the greatest liberties in adding 1931 sprightliness to the 1331 atmosphere of the Suppe comic opera.

Kirchhoff, as the Prince of Palermo in the opera, announced that he will move the cooper to Palmero so that he could continue his love affair with the cooper's wife. Of course, the cooperage business doesn't amount to much under a prohibition regime, Kirchhoff announced, but he predicted barrels would be in greater demand after prohibition.

Madame Jeritza, clad in tights as the youthful Boccaccio, dropped the German text to sing an English liberetto inviting Bodansky, the orchestra conductor, to come up and play her solo of Boccaccio and offered to take his place and conductor's "stick."

Mr. Volstead came in for his share of attention, and when one of Suppe's melodies was reminiscent of "Sweet Adeline," Gustav Schuetzendorff gravely called that fact to the audience's attention.

New records for vigorous applause were established by the delighted audience.

Highlights in Life of Great Soldier Whose Grim Fight Ended Today in Everlasting Peace

Some Day, Einstein Hints, We May Walk on Air

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein today began preparations for an attempt to solve the greatest problem in his mind—whether gravitation, light, electricity and electro-magnetism are different forms of the same thing.

The German scientist, in an interview with newspaper men yesterday, said his coming to Pasadena was to seek the help of American savants toward a solution of this problem.

SEEKS TO PROVE THEORY

In his preliminary announcement of his "field theory" about two years ago Einstein disclosed the view, supported by certain mathematical conclusions, that these four forces might be different manifestations of one thing, and that a law might be evolved to bring them all into one field of operation.

Einstein's colleagues pointed out that if such relationship could be established and a single law for their operation could be discovered, man might be able to conquer even the force of gravitation.

Under such conditions, man might "insulate" himself against gravitation or control it similarly to the manner in which he now controls electricity and light.

END DANGER OF FALLING.

Students of the theory envisioned a man thus equipped being able to step off the top of a skyscraper without the slightest danger of falling. Protected against the force of gravity, such a man would remain suspended in the air, he might ascend or decend at will.

When the last question was answered at the interview, Einstein paused. He smiled, and with a sort of mischievous, childish delight looking around the little class room, stood and said simply:

"I hope I've passed the examination."

WOMAN DROWNS AT CITY POINT

Katherine J. Barry, 43, of E. 5th st., South Boston, was drowned before the eyes of five persons in Pleasure bay, City Point, South Boston, today.

Police are unable to explain whether the woman jumped or fell into the water.

Two fishermen, Harry Allen and his son, Arthur, both of Winter st., Saugus, hauled the woman from the water while she still was struggling. Police came to the scene and applied artificial respiration, but the woman was dead when she reached Carney hospital.

A girl, a boy and a man were the first to discover the woman from the shore. They were Miss Amelia Rossi, 18, of East 6th st., William Keenan, 6, of East 7th st. and John Castrois, 26, of East 6th st., all of South Boston.

the cabin plane as it lifted toward the horizon, over which the moon hung. Both fliers wore riding breeches, boots, flying coats and helmets.

The mother of Mrs. Hart was on hand to bid her pretty daughter bon voyage.

As "Madame Redhead"—they call her that at the airport—climbed into the cockpit of the plane, she threw a kiss to her mother, and shouted:

"Goodby, mother. I never telephone anyone from Paris, but I am going to give you a call."

ESCORT FLIES OUT.

A land plane and three fliers from the New Jersey National Guard were on hand to fly the voyageurs on their way.

"We hope to be in Paris 48 hours after we leave here," said Capt. MacLaren before taking off. "If we strike bad weather at Bermuda or at the Azores we will just settle down and wait for it to pass."

Dr. James H. Kimball, veteran meteorologist, told MacLaren that while the wind was favorable between here and Bermuda he would have to pass through some rain and cloudiness and then east of Bermuda there would be storms and cross-winds.

He said the weight of the ship, loaded and fueled, was three tons. He said they were carrying food stuffs for delivery in Paris, some newspapers and magazines and a number of letters which are to be mailed in Paris to persons in the United States.

WOMAN OWNS PLANE

Mrs. Hart is 27 years old and the widow of A. J. Hart, a New York advertising man. He was killed in an automobile accident in Cleveland 17 days after they were married and she was badly injured. She owns the plane and has more than 350 hours in the air to her credit with the Department of Commerce.

Lieut. MacLaren is 34 and married. He is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, holds a commission in the naval reserve and has been an instructor at the Newark airport.

He is the son of Dr. William MacLaren, physician for the Princeton University football squad.

HUNGRY CANINE GETS NEW HOME

Ben Hur, 175-pound Great Dane, whose capacity for food cost him his home, will have a new boarding house in the hills of New Hampshire.

Today a kindly couple will drive down from East Jaffrey to transport Ben Hur to their home.

Dr. Donald E. Currier, in whose home the dog spent 15 months, returned him to the Animal Rescue League because it cost too much.

"He's a fine dog," said the doctor, "but I can't afford to feed him. He costs almost 99 cents a day—as much as an automobile."

Rum Barge Goes at Auction for $575

The barge, Eagle Hill, seized off the coast of Maine four weeks ago with 150 cases of liquor in her hull, was sold at auction by the government today. Peter J. Allen, of 519 Talbot ave., Dorchester, was the high bidder at $575. The sale is subject to the confirmation of the U. S. District court. The purchase included 800 tons of crushed granite.

MRS. BRAMWELL SOUGHT AT PIER

New York, Jan. 3—When the Mauretania docks at Pier 54, North Briver, at 5 o'clock today a police guard will be on watch for Mrs. Barbara Buffum Bramwell of Oxford, Mass., bride of "Sir" Wilton Harold Bramwell, former ship's clerk.

Advices from Oxford and Worcester stating that Mrs. Bramwell might be at the pier to greet her husband if he is aboard stirred police to seeking the "missing" girl there.

Meanwhile, in Worcester Atty. Joseph C. Genereux, attorney for th. Buffum family advanced the theory that the couple will not be seen in that section again. He believed Barbara would attempt to meet her husband in or near New York and then trek westward to start life anew.

James C. Buffum, the bride's father, today declared he knew less about the whereabouts of Bramwell than he did of his own daughter who escaped from the Worcester hospital almost three weeks ago.

500,000 Lined Streets to Honor Joffre in Boston

Marshal Joffre made one visit to Boston—May 12, 1917, during a French war mission—and 500,000 persons lined the streets to get a view of the beloved savior of France at the memorable battle of the Marne.

When he arrived at South Station, he was cheered by a throng of 25,000 and officially welcomed by Mayor Curley and Frederick H. Prince, chairman of the reception committee. Then he was taken to the home of Henry F. Sears for breakfast.

Going before the Legislature, Marshal Joffre made an address of but seven sentences.

Later he was guest of the city at a luncheon in Faneuil Hall and received a gift of $175,000 by New England school children for the war orphans of France from the hands of Miss Mary Curley, daughter of the Mayor.

In the afternoon, the Marshal rode at the head of a military parade through downtown Boston, as rain and sunshine alternated. He left the parade at the State House and reviewed it at that point, together with Gov. McCall, Lieut.-Gov. Coolidge and other notables.

After the parade, Marshal Joffre went to Cambridge and received an unexpected honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Harvard University.

He was officially welcomed by the city of Cambridge in the Harvard Stadium, where 20,000 were in attendance, then was guest of honor at a dinner in the Copley Plaza given by the Commonwealth. After the dinner he left for Canada.

TAX INCOME OFF $71,000,000

Washington, Jan. 3 (INS)—Final figures for 1929 income and corporation taxes issued today by the Treasury showed a total collection of $2,232,576,000, a reduction of $71,000,000 from 1929.

Collections during December, heavier than anticipated, amounted to $450,921,295, a decrease of $20,000,000 from the same month of 1929.

For the first half of the 1931 fiscal year, ending Dec. 31, total receipts were $1,034,257,000, a reduction of $220,000,000 from the same period of the 1230 fiscal year.

Ordinary expenditures were $1,706,758,000 for the half year, an increase of $165,000,000.

Blank Cartridges Foil Prison Break

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 3 (AP)—Blank cartridges fire today failed a wholesale prison break at Doftana. Forty-six Communists inmates of the state prison forced their cell doors and attacked the keepers with sticks, injuring several. The guards fired a blank volley and the prisoners surrendered and returned meekly to their cells where they instituted a hunger strike.

1931 Enjoys a Relapse Already

By ARTHUR "BUCK" PAET

We signed that naval pledge. And that's another peace treaty to fight about.

And down in Panama the Panamanians have started pandemonium.

We will have to handle this trouble ourselves. Not being in the leak of nations we cannot call the plumber.

Then there's a war in Nicaragua that will be worse when Borah gets into it. That peace on earth and good will to men is all right when they get the labels on the right bottles.

Well, you can never tell what will happen. A little silk worm in Japan never realizes that some day he will be a run up and down a stocking.

MISS ROSE FYLEMAN, widely known English writer of children's poetry, will be the guest of honor at the English Speaking Union on Thursday, Jan. 8. There will be a reception for her at 3 o'clock, after which she will read some of her poems. Members are requested to note the change of the hour for the entertainment, which is owing to the fact that Miss Fyleman has an engagement later in the afternoon. The hostesses for the tea at 4 o'clock will be Mrs. J. A. Lowell Blake and Mrs. G. Herbert Windler.

REGINALD W. BIRD is announcing the engagement of his daughter, Miss Betty, to William Oakes Clark, son of Mr. Elton Clark, of Framingham, at a tea tomorrow afternoon at the Bird residence, 21 Commonwealth ave. Miss Bird was introduced to society last season with the 1930-50 group. She is also a soprano singer of great promise and has sung with the 18th Century Orchestra at Jordan Hall. Mr. Clark was graduated from Harvard in 1925. No date has been set for the wedding.

Lecture on Club Finances Given at "Y" Institute

The many ways of spending money and the many ways of increasing club treasuries were outlined to clubwomen from all over the state yesterday at the regular monthly session of Club Institutes of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, held at the Clarendon st. "Y."

Mrs. Thomas J. Walker, founder and chairman of Club Institutes, welcomed the clubwomen, after which Mrs. C Douglas Mercer, president of the Boston Y. W. C. A. spoke. She lauded the Club Institutes as a clearing house of inculcuable value to clubwomen.

Club finances, always a problem with clubwomen, were discussed by Mrs. Warren H. Brydon representing Roslindale; Mrs. John Root, Hingham; Mrs. A. T. Sprague, Revere, Mrs. Emory T. Chaffee, Belmont; Miss Annie M. Sumner, Canton, Mrs. A. M. Goodnow, Jamaica Plain and Mrs. William F. Leech, Needham.

Mrs. George F. Millen of Lawrence instructed the gathering in parliamentary law.

From the president of the State Federation came a cordial invitation to attend the mid-winter meeting of the parent body at the Hotel Statler, Jan. 21. This meeting always serves to acquaint Bay State clubwomen with the various pending legislative measures in which the Federation is interested.

Two Society Girls to Wed

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

New York, Jan. 3 (US)—Of the several important nuptial events which are scheduled for late January, there are two which are of cardinal interest to society in this city—the wedding of Louise Ewing McAneney to Edward Hale Kendall, 3d, on January 14; and the union of Evelyn Taylor and Clarence Sterling Postley on January 21.

Louise, who is the daughter of Mrs. Ewing McAneney, of 129 E. 32d st., will become the bride of young Kendall, who is the son of the Edward H. Kendalls of this city and Babylon, L. I., at the exclusive Colony Club in this city, and shortly after the ceremony, the young couple will sail for India, where they will make their temporary home.

Miss McAneney is, on the maternal side, the granddaughter of Mrs. Bernard M. Ewing, and through her father, Francis B. McAneney, of this city, she is a granddaughter of the late Col. John McAneney, who was a Confederate officer in the Civil War and later became vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railway.

Edward is a grandson of Mrs. Edward Hale Kendall, the former Lydia Jones Wistar, of Philadelphia, and of Mrs. Henry Wolcott Thomas, who will be remembered as Helen L. Stevens of Boston.

Evelyn, is the daughter of the Augustus Taylors, of San Francisco, and is well known in the city. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hopkins and a niece of Mrs. Stewart Lowery, Mrs. Hopkins Cowdin, Mrs. George Pope and Samuel Hopkins, of San Francisco. The bride-to-be was presented to society in the city overlooking the "Golden Gate" in 1928 and is a member of the Junior League.

Clubs Urged to Assist Chest

Mrs. Carl L. Schrader Asks Clothing Contributions for Welfare Project

By NANCY BREWSTER

To keep the work of the Commonwealth Welfare Chest going, Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, its chairman and president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, has issued another appeal to the clubwomen of the State for further contributions of clothing to the chest.

In a bulletin from the chest headquarters, the chairman urges Bay State women's organizations to "come through" for the chest until the work is completed."

"But the work of the chest is a work that must be continued until the present emergency has completely passed," Mrs. Schrader informs clubwomen. "And if the work is to continue, donations of clothing must continue to be sent to the chest headquarters at the John Hancock building, 90 St. James ave., Boston.

CLUBS' AID NEEDED

"We need all kinds of warm clothing to meet the demands of needy persons during the winter months and as a result of what has already been done, we look with confidence to the women's organizations of the State to keep our headquarters well stocked with all the necessary articles. We ask your continued and continuous assistance, until the need for the Commonwealth Welfare Chest has passed."

To the more than 2200 persons who applied to the chest for relief before Christmas clothing for close to 7000 persons was distributed, the bulletin states.

Organized as an experiment, the chest has proven its initial test, Mrs. Schrader asserts in making the further appeal for donations.

CHRISTMAS RELIEF WORK

"Of course, the chest is not and was not a seasonal institution, but the pre-Christmas work and the ability to bring relief before Christmas Day constituted a sort of test and the results show that a vast amount of good was done," Mrs. Schrader continues.

"Of course, we feel it is a tribute to the women who gave their time in the interests of the chest, but it also seems to prove that the chest has a definite useful and needed place in the community at this time."

The bulletin sent out to more than 1000 women's organizations will be read to the membership.

Lecture Courses to Be Sponsored by Y. W. C. A.

With the new year, the Boston Young Women's Christian Association will offer a new course under the title of "Modern Influence of Great Christian Leaders." During the course of the lecture, Dr. James A. Muller of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, will interpret the lives of such men as Luther, Loyola, Laud, Bunyan and Wesley, linking up direct ly with the affairs of the modern world.

Beginning Jan. 15, the "Y" will present Sunder Joshi of the University of Bombay in a series of talks on the people, customs, history, and general living of India.

More than 50 interesting subjects are to be offered the public through the general education committee of the "Y," of which Mrs. Prescott A. Fisk is the chairman. Miss Dorothy Liewitt is educational director, and announces a few of the subjects: Poise in Public, Etiquette, French for Travelers, Books Everyone Knows About, Interior Decorative Treasures, You and Your Child, How to Be Interesting, Domestic Needlecraft, Psychology of Personality and others.

On Mrs. Fisk's committee are Mrs. E. Nelson Kimball, Miss E. E. McClintock, Mrs. James Kingsley Blake, Mrs. H. E. Grigor, Mrs. Katherine Ridgeway Hunt, Mrs. W. O. Mann Mrs. Gardner Washburn, Mrs. H. W. Dunning, Mrs. Kojiro Tomita, Mrs. Clifford Bond, Mrs. Courtenay Crocker, Mrs. T. Gratton Abbott.

Republican Club Committees Plan Several Lectures

A full week of interesting activities is on schedule for members of the Women's Republican Club according to the weekly bulletin of the publicity department of the club.

Dr. Charles C. Batchelder will speak at the club next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 on "Will Stalin's Five-Year Plan Succeed or Fail?" under the auspices of the activities department of which Mrs. Alexander Lincoln is the director.

Miss Miriam O'Brien, daughter of Robert Lincoln O'Brien, and widely known as an outstanding Alpine climber, will address the club on "Alpine Climbing in Summer and Winter," next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. She will illustrate her talks with slides. A musical program will follow the lecture.

At the usual weekly political lecture, held Thursday at 11 o'clock, Mrs. Ida Porter Boyer, will discuss current events for the membership. Mrs. Frederick E. Judd director of the political department, will introduce the speaker.

The first of six talks on "Public Questions: Home and Foreign" will begin Saturday, January 10, with Professor William Starr Myers of Princeton University discussing, "The Policies of the Hoover Administration." His talk starts at 10:45 a. m. at the clubhouse.

The next lecture in the series will come January 24 and the subject will be "Great Britain-Troubles at Home and Abroad."

Dry Law Reform Club to Sponsor Bridge and Whist

With a committee of 80 members of the Boston division working for the success of the affair, the Women's Organization for the Reform of National Prohibition will sponsor a subscription bridge and whist party at the Hotel Statler next Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. John J. Horgan of Dorchester and Mrs. Morton P. Prince of Boston head the committee.

A feature of the affair will come at 4 p. m., when the educational campaign for temperance planned by this organization will be opened with an address by Alfred D. Radley of Winchester, who will be introduced to the gathering by Mrs. Robert W. Lovett, co-chairman of the Massachusetts branch.

Radley will address the group on phases of liquor control and the practical workings of the law.

Frocks Simple for Country Evenings

By ANN ARDEN

MODEL from JAYS, INC.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WLEX.

ANN ARDEN broadcasts latest style news over WLEX every Tuesday and Thursday at 10:30 a. m.

WEEK-ENDS or days in the country aren't all tweeds and saddle soap by any means. After a brisk day out of doors clad in the semi-mannish costume demanded, feminine thoughts naturally turn to little fripperies—to the smoothness of silk after the roughness of tweeds. Thus it happens that the cocktail hour finds the country guests grouped about in a little more formal array.

* * *

TO AVOID taking along enough luggage to frighten your hostess into thinking you have come for the winter—it is better to choose a dress-up frock with a dual personality.

* * *

THE FROCK that comes under the heading "Sunday Night" is just the sort of thing you can cart along on your fresh air jaunt. It has a pleasant latitude in styling and is never embarrassingly dressy. Short, long or mere caps of sleeves are the prerogative of this frock. And its fabric may be chiffon, flat crepe, lace, lame or any of a number of others.

* * *

ARDANSE, WHO made such a sensational success with her Sunday night frocks last year, has some stunning new ones. All adhere to the fitted silhouette, and most of them have the elaborated sleeve that this house loves so dearly. Beading is now so good that it is used again and again to subtly stress the formal note.

* * *

LACE WILL play an important role in fashions for the South, and lace frocks are such a comfort, as they pack and repack and emerge none the worse for the ordeal.

* * *

THE FROCK pictured is in flesh pink lace, an evening gown, with sleeves in the Ardanse manner—tight to the elbow, with wide circular lower sections. The neckline is draped to a becoming roundness, the tie belt is of the lace, and the skirt has deep circular ruffle, set on from pointed upper section.

* * *

THE HAND-PAINTED fan is toned yellow and shades of green; and fans are being revived to match our graceful styles. The necklace is a hand-painted medallion on slender gold chain.

* * *

WHETHER YOUR lace frock is quaintly fashioned or tailored in the newest manner of sheer ensembles, the pattern of the fabric is very apt to be decidedly modern. Modern designs are replacing the fragile flowers and conventional patterns that have so long had precedence. Modernity distinguishes both heavy and sheer types.

Christmas Tree Party to Be Held by Press Women

Late, but timely, however, the New England Women's Press Association will hold a Christmas tree party for members at the Hotel Lincolnshire next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Joseph A. Mahoney, president, heads the committee on arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Henry Armstrong and Mrs. Alice M. Seaman.

Preceding the party, a board meeting will take place at 2 p. m., for half an hour, followed by a regular meeting for another half hour.

ALFARO CALLED TO POWER IN PANAMA

Panama City, Jan. 3 (AP)—Panama, its government overturned in a few hours of swiftly moving revolution, today awaited the return of its new president-designate, Dr. Don Ricardo J. Alfaro, minister at Washington. Dr. Alfaro cabled from Washington his acceptance of the post.

Meanwhile a provisional government, headed by Dr. Harmodio Arias, a leader of the Isthmian republic's young bloods, acted to restore order throughout the country, arresting the leading figures of the old regime and seeking to allay public fears of further violence.

Florencio Harmodio Arosemena, who yesterday resigned the presidency he had held since 1928, was confined to his quarters with other government officials, including Archibaldo Boyd, governor of the Province of Panama. It was believed he will be released shortly.

TEN PERSONS KILLED

Ten persons were killed in the revolt. Of the ten dead, eight were members of the police or national constabulary and two were civilians. Fifteen persons were wounded.

One of the most seriously wounded was an American, Hartwell F. Ayers, newspaperman of Anniston, Ala., who was shot in the neck and the abdomen. His intestines were perforated and despite his cheerfulness his physicians believed he would die.

Before resigning Dr. Arosemena, whose surrender was forced at the point of a riot machine gun, replaced Daniel Ballen as secretary of government and justice by Dr. Arias. When he resigned the Supreme court took charge of the situation, according to law, and at 5 p. m. swore in Dr. Arias as provisional president.

ARIAS DOESNT WANT JOB

Meanwhile the invitation to Dr. Alfaro was extended on the ground the three vice-presidents were illegally elected and that therefore Alfaro, first vice-president in the preceding administration, was the logical successor to Arosemena.

Dr. Arias appointed a provisional cabinet. Shortly after being sworn in Dr. Arias called on U. S. Minister Dawson to inform him of the developments, and in a statement to American newspaper men said:

"I am sorry this has happened, but it was forced on the people and on me. I don't want to be king and I assure you that I won't have it long, but the people have faith in me and I will carry out their wishes."

CAPITAL IS QUIET

The greatest opposition to the regime developed in Colon, where the Governor, Inocencio Galindo, was arrested last night with his subordinates. They will be held until a new government is established. Galindo ordered the police of 500 police to Panama to aid in suppressing the revolt, but the Isthmian railroad refused to carry the men.

A considerable number of former government officials have been arrested and are being held temporarily. Others have taken refuge in various legations.

The capital was quiet today, with stores opening and transportation facilities restored to normal service.

Dr. Alfaro Winding Up Washington Affairs

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—Dr. Ricardo J. Alfaro, president designate of Panama, today began winding up his affairs as minister to the United States prior to assuming his new office.

The young head of the new administration in Panama, who owes his new position to yesterday's succession of events in Panama City, was undecided as to just when he would sail.

Ashes of Dead Flier Not to Be Scattered

Darien, Ct., Jan. 3 (AP)—Burt C. Whedon of Jamaica, N. Y., father of Roger O. Whedon, 23-year-old aviator who shot and killed himself here on New Year's, today said he would not allow a brother pilot of his dead son to scatter the son's ashes over the towns of Darien and New Canaan, a ceremony that was one o fthe youthful aviator's dying wishes.

Instead, the father declared, the body will be taken to Litchfield, Ct., for burial in the family vault.

Division of Survey Sought in New Bill

Establishment of a "division of survey and development" within the department of conservation was provided in a bill filed today by Representative Ira Ward of Plymouth. The proposed division would co-operate with various federal bureaus, cities and towns regarding compilation and distribution of data on natural resources.

$250,000 Schooner Is Sold for $1400

Built in 1919 at a cost of more than $250,000, the four-masted schooner, M. Vivian Pierce, was sold today for $1400 by a deputy U. S. marshal at auction in East Boston, he schooner, owned by the New England Maritime Co., had been seized to satisfy a judgment. It was purchased by the William H. Swan Co. of New York.

Five Perish as Rain Floods Portugal

Oporto, Portugal, Jan. 3 (AP)—Five persons were killed in a rainstorm that swept the town of Freixo near here today. Two lost their lives in collapse of a house and four others were injured, two probably fatally. At Valado de Frades a chimney stock was blown over, burying three girls. The village of Constancia was completely submerged.

ARTHUR FLETCHER

STOCK MARKET LOSSES and his failure to raise funds to build up his business are believed to have caused Peter W. Fletcher, Jr., 35, Watertown merchant, to kill his two sons and then end his own life in Lincoln. Sickness is believed to have spared a daughter, Naomi, four, a like fate. Photo shows the Fletcher home in Grenville rd., Watertown. The slain boys are Richard, 11, and Arthur, 12.

Six Experts in Their Varied Lines Nominated

Editor Boston American:

Who know? Here's more about the laws, ordinances and charter amendments relating to the City of Boston than any one else? City Clerk Doyle.

Who knows more how to handle a prominent legislator for an interview on a ticklish question than a prince among newspaper reporters, whose name must be kept under cover.

Who knows more about delinquency arrests in large cities than Clifford R. Shaw of Chicago who will speak in Boston January 16?

Who deserves the honor bestowed upon him as President of the American Geological Association more than Prof. Alfred C. Lane of department of geology Tufts College?

What will please the Cape Codders more than the recent news that work upon widening and deepening Cape Cod canal will begin at once?

What Boston clergyman can spring more entertaining jokes upon festive occasions helping digestion than Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher of Tremont Temple?

Check of Extravagance of [E] Trustees Sought

Editor Boston American:

So the Legislature is going right ahead with a bill for only 42 years more of these public trustees; and I note that they are demanding about 42 million dollars to spend for improvements ad lib. Isn't that nice—for them?

Is there any check on their extravagance? Perhaps they go ahead no matter how much it costs. Perhaps somebody can tell whether or not their accounts are audited to see that the public get their money's worth; or is all the auditing done by the El officials themselves.

We all know about the Shawmut extension to Mattapan, and how the passengers are defrauded of their time by having to change cars at Ashmont; this shows the El's idea of rapid transit. As to their ideas of construction, I note that before they became a public infliction the El had built shelters at some of the transfer points. There is one at Franklin Park, one at Brookline Village and one at Coolidge Corner.

These are solidly built of wood, have given shelter for many years and good for many more; and are open to the weather on one side. Now these public trustees have built shelters at the stations from Ashmont to Mattapan; wood was not good enough. These are built of structural steel, showing reckless extravagance; and these $4,000,000 trustees show their brains by building them open to the weather on all four sides. HERBERT JACKSON.

Looks to Cash Bonus to Bring Back Prosperity

Editor Boston American:

Let no one attempt to tell you that if the soldiers' bonus was to be paid in full that the veteran would not benefit by it, as he would at once spend it and then be as badly off as if he did not get it. For 75 per cent of the men in the country who are to day out of employment are veterans, and if they were to get their adjusted service certificates in cash now and did spend they would be carrying out the request made some time ago by some of the leading politicians. Remember when they said Buy Now? Give us our money now and we will Buy; Three Billion Dollars' Worth of Prosperity; Yes, at Once.

Now read on and let this little story start you thinking.

Mr. Blank, the proprietor of a boarding house, recently sat at dinner in company with his wife; Mrs. Smith, the village dressmaker; Mr. John Doe, the baker; Mr. Jones, a carpenter, and Mr. Moe, a merchant. Mr. Blank took a ten-dollar bill out of his pocket and handed it to Mrs. Blank, remarking there is ten dollars of the 20 I promised you. Mrs. Blank handed the bill to the dressmaker, saying, "That pays for my new dress." The dressmaker in turn passed it on to John Doe, the baker, remarking that it would pay for the flour she had bought. The merchant then handed it to the carpenter, Mr. Moe, in payment for work he had done in repairing the house. Mr. Moe then gave it to Mr. Blank in payment for his board and room. Mr. Blank then gave it to his wife, saying here is the rest of that twenty I promised to give you. Whereupon Mrs. Blank put it into her purse, remarking that she never knew that a ten-dollar bill would go so far.

Who is holding the greenback? "The Veteran Knows." Turn it loose and see how soon prosperity will return.

R. W. GARRISON.

Capital Punishment Abolition Up Again

Editor Boston American:

A proposal for abolition of capital punishment is coming up again in the legislature of this state. It is proposed to have it suspended for a period of five years, to study the effect. While not agreeing entirely with Senator Angier Goodwin of Melrose who is championing a bill of this nature, I believe we can test its importance by giving it this five year trial.

We should have accorded the same treatment to prohibition. Try it for five years instead of throttling us with it as an eternal principle.

N. H. HYLAND.

Only Respectable Law Merits Respect

Editor Boston American:

Your paper has long been a dominant factor in the maintenance of American independence. I salute you on the courage, ability and Americanism of your staff.

The written editorial or cartoon has always been recognized as far more enduring and effective than the spoken words of our most eloquent orators.

I think, however, that to be truly powerful, a daring cartoon or a scathing editorial should blaze on the first page, not smoulder on the last!

Aggressiveness was the secret of Yankee success in 1776. That same aggressive spirit shall be our only guarantee of an American America in 1931.

Today our country is beset by many difficulties, difficulties which cannot be frightened by empty words, difficulties which can be obliterated only by decisive action.

Mark my words! The American people will not, for long, tolerate any tyranny—let alone that which is masked in legal phraseology! I refer, of course, to the prohibition law.

Since we cannot create a people to fit the law, why do we not adjust the law to fit our people?

Respect for law can best be secured by making respectable laws. Surely, no law that violates the Divine Rights of Man, can be deemed worthy of respect. Only He who has given us the right to mould our destinies can take that right away.

Prohibition is, I am sorry to say, an utter failure. Neither debates, constitutions, nor imagination can conceal or excuse its defects. The only remedy is a common sense law, temperance devoid of fanaticism.

DANIEL A. O'CONNELL.

Dorr's Interest in Employes Praised

Editor Boston American:

Three cheers for Mr. Dorr, president of Raymond's. He is the kind of man we cannot forget. He always remembers the people working for him Christmas.

It would be great if we had more men like him. He proves to his employes that he takes interest in them. Readers, let us hand it to him.

1 Killed, 4 Trapped by Coal Mine Blast

Midvale, O., Jan. 3 (AP)—One miner was reported to have been killed, four were entombed and 15 others escaped today when an explosion occurred in Mine No. 4 of the Midvale Coal Company, near here. Reports said rescue workers had recovered the body of Clyde Ohler.

8 Hartford Fliers Reach Harrisburg

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 3 (AP)—Eight Connecticut National Guard fliers arrived at the United States army air depot field at Middletown, near here, at 11:55 a. m. today, en route from Hartford to Miami, Fla., via Cleveland. The men are flying in four machines on a 1800 mile training flight.

100 LEAVE HERE FOR TRIP TO TROPICS

Nearly 300 Bostonians boarded the Canadian-National steamship Lady Rodney when it berthed at Commonwealth Pier today en route from Halifax to Jamaica and Havana.

The Prince Robert, bound here from the West Indies, brought many passengers, and completed her first cruise since her launching in England last fall.

Bostonians aboard the Lady Rodney were Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Knapp, A. G. Bartlett, Mrs. June R. Levy, James Otis, Mrs. J. P. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Riede, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Baker, their two sons, Ruben and Thomas, and their daughter Irene; and Robert Hawes.

TWINS BORN TO MRS. CHRISTMAS

Twin boys, each weighing slightly more than five pounds, were the somewhat belated holiday present Mrs. Mary Christmas gave her husband in Massachusetts Memorial Hospital early today.

Mrs. Christmas, whose home is at 125 Harvard ave., West Medford, gave birth to the first boy, weighing 5 pounds and 11½ ounces, at 4 o'clock this morning, and five minutes later the second was born. Twin No. 2 weighed exactly 5 pounds 12 ounces at birth.

Dr. Sturgis, Hull Physician, Weds

Dr. Walter H. Sturgis, 56-year-old head of Sturgis Hospital, Hull, married 22-year-old Miss Mildred Foley, Hingham wintergarden teacher, today. After the wedding, which was performed by Dr. John A. Redmond of Hingham Methodist Church, in the bride's home in Thaxter st., Hingham, the bridal couple drove to Boston to board a steamship for a honeymoon in the South.

The only persons who attended the marriage ceremony were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Foley, and the bride's sister, Miss Marion Foley. Dr. Sturgis' first wife died last May.

Belated Christmas Gift

PORT OF BOSTON IN REVIEW

By JAMES J. DELANEY

The new Prince Robert, Canadian National Steamships, which opened a series of three cruises to the West Indies from Boston, will dock at Commonwealth Pier today for a week.

As soon as the Lady Rodney, one of the famous "lady ships" of the same fleet, starts today on the second regular weekly sailing to the West Indies, the Prince Robert will take her place at the pier.

One of the latest type cruisers, she has the newest equipment designed for the comfort and convenience of sea-going vacationists.

PROBE ASKED

Charging that a bulkhead, partly surrounding state-owned filled area in South Boston, opposite the Army Base and bordering the Reserve Channel, is "of little value as a means of protection and is also unsightly," Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce requests an investigation and report of the condition. In calling it to the formal attention of the Boston port authorities, Mr. Davis urges that repairs be effected.

CRUISE DIRECTOR

Many bookings have already been received for the 21-day cruise on the Mediterranean by the S. S. Rotterdam, Holland-American Line, which will be headed by John H. Reurs, manager of the Boston office of the Holland-American Line. Reurs has been selected from all the officials of the line to represent the management. Besides being given the honor of cruise director, Mr. Reurs will be joined by his wife at Cadiz, which is the first European port of call.

SUBMARINE BELL

The temporary submarine oscillator on the Boston Lightship is out of commission and is being replaced by a submarine bell until it can be repaired, notice has been given to navigators by the United States Department of Commerce Bureau of Lighthouses.

JAPAN STEAMER

After loading 150 tons of feed wheat for Nagoya, Japan, the S. S. Kinkiu Maru, Japanese steamer, leaves today to fill up with cotton at Houston and Galveston, Texas. Failure of the wheat crop in Japan has forced the Nipponese to import wheat. This is the fourth shipment from Boston. The ship loaded 1500 tons of wheat at St. John, N. B., before coming here for her shipment, which amounts to 39,000 bushels.

BUOY CONFUSION

Notice that a can buoy placed six miles west by north from Davis Shoal, off Sankaty Head light, for the benefit of Coast Guard boats in patrol lookout for rum runners, which failed to reach Capt. Matthew Richards of the fishing schooner Isabel, caused him considerable trouble, Capt. Richards, on arriving at the Fish Pier, stated when he sighted the buoy he thought he was off his course and went back to Davis Shoal. Coming back he picked up the buoy again. He stated he thought it was put there by rum runners as a contact for boats from shore. Capt. George E. Eaton, superintendent of lighthouses in the second district United States Department of Commerce Bureau of Lighthouses, stated notice was sent to mariners when the buoy was established by his department.

CHINESE FIGHT WILD BURMANS

Rangoon, Burma, Jan. 3 (AP)—This city was thrown into turmoil today by rioting between Burmans and Chinese armed with stones, whips, and bars. The police finally had to fire on the rioters, and 15 persons are believed to have been killed or injured.

The fighting caused suspension of all traffic and stores were closed and hotel doors barred.

Troops which returned yesterday from the Tharawaddy district, where they ended the secret citadel of the rebel chieftain who has directed the savage raids on the jungle villages, are ready for call, if needed.

Although the troops believed they had routed the rebels when they burned the palace and killed the blond Burman believed to be the mysterious self-styled king of the jungle empire, the scattered forces united during the night and today fighting was again reported near Tharawaddy.

NUTT AND LUCAS FACE QUIZ ON KLAN FUND

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—More light on both the source of funds and the origin of literature used in a Republican campaign against re-election of Senator Norris, Nebraska, is to be sought Tuesday by the Senate campaign funds committee.

Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee, who paid for the literature, was greeted when he arrived last night with a subpoena to appear at the Tuesday hearing.

Chairman Nye also has summoned Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the national committee. Nutt is to be asked the original source of a special $50,000 bank account of the Republican organization. This fund was pledged as security for a $4000 loan to Lucas about $800 of which he said was spent for anti-Norris publicity.

LINK KLAN TO DRIVE

Through examination of records of the Independent Publishing Co. of this city, the committee will seek to establish whether any link existed between the Ku Klux Klan and the anti-Norris efforts.

Officers of the company, which publishes the pro-Klan Fellowship Forum, have testified before the Nye committee that part of the campaign literature purchased from them by Lucas for an anti-Norris drive was the same used against Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential candidate in 1928.

Both Lucas and Nutt, however, have denied any connection with efforts to inject the "religious issue" in the Nebraska senatorial contest.

NYE HUNTS "SLUSH."

Nutt also will be questioned as to the use of the $50,000 fund, as the committee is not wholly satisfied with his reiterated statement that the money went into no senate contests.

Nutt said last week only $32,000 of the fund had been expended and all of this was sent into eight states for support of Republican House candidates.

He also said a record of the expenditures was on file with the clerk of the House and demanded a public apology when Nye termed the account a "slush fund." Nye replied it was "barely possible" it was not a slush fund.

OFFICER HELD IN GIRL MURDER

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—A Washington policeman was arrested today in connection with the death of Beulah Limerick, 19, found in bed Wednesday with a hidden bullet hole in her head.

He is Robert F. Langdon, who has been on the girl's home. Records showed he was on duty in the vicinity from midnight Tuesday until 8 a. m. Wednesday.

Two .25 caliber guns owned by Langdon and of a type such as that believed to have killed Miss Limerick were being tested by John Fowler, ballistics expert, to see if they had been fired recently.

Langdon denied having had the weapons with him Wednesday morning.

A second policeman, whose name was not divulged, also was questioned.

Buildings in Chile Damaged by Quake

Santiago De Chile, Jan. 3 (AP)—Slight damage was inflicted in the area between Santiago and Talca yesterday by a series of earth shocks, one of which approached the intensity of a full earthquake. In Curico, Province of Talca, the principle church and several other buildings were damaged. Cracks appeared in the streets and the populace is said to be panic stricken.

Attempt to Deport Gangsters Fails

Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP)—The government lost the first attempt of the new year to help rid Chicago of gangsters by deporting them. Jack Guzik, sometimes referred to as the "watchdog of Al Capone's treasury," and his brothers, Sam and Harry, objects of the government's attack, escaped yesterday when Harry produced evidence showing all three to be citizens.

Newsboys' Christmas Gift to President

NEWSBOYS OF THE UNITED STATES concluded their recent three-day pilgrimage to Washington by marching to the White House on Christmas afternoon and presenting President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover with a miniature Napoleonic coach. The gift coach is exactly like those which thousands of American boys are building in the competition for four university scholarships and 980 other awards. It was built at the newsboys' request, by experts of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild.

Somber Hues Prevail as N. Y. Automobile Show Opens

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—Trends toward pointed radiators, more sombre hues, low bodies of accentuated length and increased speed and pickup for the 1931 auto models were revealed today with the opening of the 31st national automobile show at Grand Central Palace.

Of the more than 300 new car and chassis models displayed every one revealed some change in design or mechanical improvement.

Eight-cylinder cars led sixes by a slight margin. Manufacturers said they sought "bodily steadiness" as well as beauty. Openings to front and back compartments generally were wider.

The swing away from the ultra-bright colors of former years was definite, with pastel shades of green, black, brown and maroon leading. Wire wheels were in color and chromium.

The manufacturers said increased speed reflected improved roads and long trunk highways.

Especially addressing women, the manufacturers claim their new models are easier to handle under all driving conditions.

Adjustable drivers' seats and steering columns made their appearance in many models and spare tires were almost universally transferred from the rear to fender wells. Use of the double carburetors and down-draft type was more general.

I. C. C. TAKES UP MERGER PLANS

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—A special meeting of the Interstate Commerce Commission was called for today to discuss the consolidation plans of eastern railroad heads.

It was said at commission headquarters that a public statement may be made, and that this was one thing to be decided.

Although formal applications for consolidations, as agreed upon yesterday by executives of the Baltimore & Ohio, the Pennsylvania, the Nickel Plate and the New York Central railroads have not been filed, the commission has received a letter explaining the plans.

MATE JAILED IN 'LOVE KILLING'

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—An attractive millinery model was found fatally shot on a Brooklyn porch shortly after midnight and her dying statement led to the arrest of her grocer clerk husband on a homicide charge.

Mrs. Yvonne Cassieri, 26, mother of an eight-year-old daughter, was discovered on the porch in Flatbush with three bullet wounds in her body. Her automobile stood a block down the street with a revolver and five cartridges on the floor.

"My husband," she was quoted as saying. Pressed for a motive, she declared, "because he loved me and I loved him."

The husband, John, said he returned from a movie about 10 p. m. and went to bed, but detectives declared they found him eating a meal about 1 a. m.

The dead woman's mother, Mrs. Laura de Courcelles, told police her son-in-law did return about 10 p. m., but that she herself went to sleep shortly thereafter.

Drop in Stolen Cars, but More Are Burned

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—The proportion of insured automobiles destroyed by fire is twice as large today as it was a few years ago, and the ratio of stolen cars has declined correspondingly, the Weekly Underwriter said today.

"Conditions have become reversed as respects fire and theft loss. The theft losses used to be heavy and the fire losses light. "There is no profit in stealing used cars. It is easier to get insurance money by having a car burned than by having it stolen."

Ship Suite Enlarged for Wales' Voyage

Liverpool, England, Jan. 3 (AP)—Workmen swarmed aboard the liner Oropesia today to make radical changes in her accommodations in preparation for the Prince of Wales and Prince George, who leave on Jan. 15 for their tour of South America. Partitions in the passenger compartments have been removed to enlarge the royal suite, which has been newly furnished and decorated.

Horvatt, missing president of the looted State Bank of Binghamton. The total value of liquor seized in the three raids is $160,000.

Splendor Marks New Papal Train of Pope Pius

Vatican City (AP)—The new papal train of Pius XI will be a thing of magnificence and color yet unknown in the history of railroads.

Soon after the Vatican City rail road, newest in the world, goes into operation this year, the papal train will be ready.

The train is not expected to have a very extended use unless the pope should decide to make the often projected trip outside the Vatican City to Northern Italy.

This will be the first time since 1870 a pope shall have ridden in a train.

The new train will consist of three coaches, one for the papal throne, another containing a little chapel, and the third a private coach, wherein the pontiff may dine and sleep. There will be several other coaches for members of the Pope's household, Swiss guards, papal gendarmes and Noble Guards.

All coaches will be of steel, painted dark red. Each will carry the pontifical coat of arms in bronze. The internal walls will be ornamented with red damask.

Designers of the train have devoted special care to the throne-coach, for here the Pope will hold receptions. The throne and other furnishings will be of mahogany.

BOYS PRESENT COACH MODEL TO HOOVERS

A miniature Napoleonic coach, exactly like those which members of the Boston Evening American Chapter of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild are constructing in their competition for four university scholarships and 980 other awards, is now among the cherished possessions of President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover in the White House. It was presented on Christmas Day, by members of the American Newspaper Boys' Association, on their first annual pilgrimage to the capital.

The coach was constructed by Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild members, expressly for the purpose. Knowing that it was the first of these models to be completed for private ownership, its builders lavished on it the utmost skill and care.

COACH IS PRESENTED

The model was taken to Washington by Fisher Guild representatives, during the newsboys' pilgrimage,which had gathered into the capital almost 1000 boys from all parts of the country. The boys formed a procession before the offices of the Washington Herald, the Guild sponsor newspaper in Washington, and marched with a band to the south gate of the White House, forming a double rank on the south lawn.

President and Mrs. Hoover walked between the rows of boys and received the coach from the hands of Harry Martin while William A. Sheehy, another of the delegates and also a Guild member, made the presentation address.

"Mr. President," he said, "I have the honor of representing the newspaper boys of America, and wish to present to you this token of our esteem. You are the first President who ever recognized the newsboys as an organized body. As you daily gaze on this coach, we hope it will bring to mind that we are, somewhere in this country of ours, doing our bit to make it a better one."

FROM THE SAME PLANS

President and Mrs. Hoover examined the coach with keen interest, opening and closing the doors, lowering the steps and peering inside at the perfectly-appointed interior. The President's response was brief but enthusiastic.

"So that is what Napoleon rode in," he said. "It is a wonderful model!"

SUE POLLARD TO WED TONIGHT

Richmond, Va., Jan. 3 (AP)—The little mistress of the Governor's mansion, center of attraction at many a State occasion during the past year, is to be married tonight, quietly and simply.

The ceremony uniting Miss Susanne Pollard, daughter of the Governor of Virginia, and Mrs. John Garland Pollard, and Herbert Lee Boatwright, Jr., Washington lawyer, will be performed at the mansion with only close kin and intimate friends present. Afterward the doors of the official residence will be swung open to 500 guests.

Sue Pollard

The officiating clergyman will be the Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, rector of historic Bruton Parish Church, Williamsburg, of which Miss Pollard and her mother are communicants. Governor Pollard will give away the bride and the only attendants will be Miss Emily Pollard of Marion, Va., a cousin, and Benjamin Booth, Jr., of Danville, Va.

Mr. Boatwright, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee Boatwright of Danville, Va., is a graduate of Princeton and was a law student at the University of Virginia. They will live in Washington.

Explorer to Tell Story

A FIRST HAND STORY. To tell of his adventures and hardships confronted in the wastes of the Arctic, Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer and pioneer movie cameraman, will be in Boston on Monday. He will address members of the Temple Irssel Brotherhood at the Temple Israel Meeting House, on Monday night.

Wilkins, Noted Explorer, to Lecture in Boston

Sir George Hubert Wilkins, whose colorful descriptions of the round the world flight of the Graf Zeppelin on the Hearst-Eckener expedition thrilled millions of readers a little more than a year ago, is coming to Boston Monday.

The famous explorer, pioneer movie cameraman and hero of the Hearst-Antarctic expedition of two years ago, will give a talk to the Temple Israel Brotherhood at Temple Israel Meeting House, Monday night.

LONG AN EXPLORER

As far back as 1910, he sought the thrill of travel and found it in seasons in flying under Claude Graham-White, the aviator of the times.

His career in the field of exploration started two years later when he joined the Canadian Arctic expedition as official photographer.

Travel and experience, thrills and situations were stored within him when he joined the forces of William Randolph Hearst for the exploits he was to add, not only to accomplish, but to report.

In spite of his birth in the South Seas, the son of English parents who were making their home in Australia, he chose the cold, waste realms of the polar regions for his exploring and thrilled the world with the expedition to the Antarctic that reported hitherto unknown lands.

REPORTED ZEPP FLIGHT

His return called for Broadway's acclaim and the following year he undertook the reporting of the Graf Zeppelin flights from Germany to America for the Hearst newspapers.

His efforts were publicly recognized and when the Hearst flight by Zeppelin was planned by Mr. Hearst Sir Capt. Wilkins was chosen to chronicle the big event for the public.

His dispatches were eagerly read and upon his return a lecture tour of the country was decided upon.

Before his world-wide experiences he won many honors for polar and war achievements, the latter for exceptional movies and still pictures taken under fire.

The title "Sir" was conferred on him by the British government in knighthood for meritorious deeds of exploration.

Brake Test Patent Given; Fight Ends

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—Announcement was made today of the award by the patent office of a patent covering basic claims in the brake tester field. This has been a subject of controversy for five years. The award was made on claims of Graham & Flood, now owned by Bendix-Cowdrey Brake Tester, Inc., and covers nearly 45 patents and patent applications.

200,000 May Join British Mine Strike

London, Jan. 3 (AP)—A textile strike in the Lancashire cotton mills threatened today to add 200,000 textile workers to the 150,000 South Wales miners who are remaining away from work. Negotiations for adjustment of the workers' objections to a more mills per weaver project of the mill owners broke down last night.

Austrian President in U. S. Radio Hookup

Vienna, Jan. 3 (AP)—Wilhelm Miklas president of the Austrian republic, will broadcast a message to the American people over the Columbia Broadcasting System Sunday, Jan. 11, at 12:30 p. m., eastern standard time. He will be introduced by Gilbert Baker Stockton, United States minister to Austria.

Veteran Gets Check, Robber Takes All

Kansas City, Jan. 3 (AP)—Fred Jensen, 48, a patient in the United States Veterans' Hospital here, went downtown on receipt of his January compensation check to buy a Christmas present for his wife in Charlton, Ia. Returning, he was held up by a robber who took the gift, a $10 handbag, and the remainder of the veteran's $74 check.

Blast Kills Laborer

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—A laborer was killed, another was injured and 18 others showered with rocks today when an overcharge of dynamite exploded 600 feet underground in the partly-constructed Queens-Yonkers aqueduct.

GARNER SCORES G. O. P. FIGHT ON BONUS

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—Rep. John N. Garner, Texas, Democratic House leader, today demanded that the Republicans controlling the House give a hearing on proposals for cash redemption of the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates.

Announcement by Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee, that he would not call his committee together for a hearing, drew an attack from the fiery Texan. He said:

"The demand for legislation has come from all over the country. It is a justified appeal. Thousands of citizens besides World War veterans have endorsed the proposal. Yet Hawley flatly refuses to give even a hearing."

47 BILLS OFFERED

"Hawley ought to explain whether his refusal is due to orders from Speaker Longworth or the Republican steering committee.

"The fight for this worthwhile legislation will go on. And I feel certain that sooner or later there will be legislation."

Garner pointed out that 47 bills have been introduced in Congress for cash payment. Some are for payment of the present surrender value of the insurance certificates, while others call for payment now of the amount due in 1945. These do not include a bill Garner will file Monday.

Twenty-seven Democrats and 11 Republicans have filed bills. One hundred members of the House have signed a petition for immediate action.

2600 SEEK LOANS.

Fully 2600 men have applied to the veterans' bureau for loans on their adjusted service certificates. Approximately 600 of them called in person and 2000 applications were on file to become effective today.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, has estimated that $425,000,000 will be available for loans to veterans this year and that $20,000,000 could be lent to them this month.

EARTH'S WEIGHT SET BY SCIENCE

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL,
Universal Service Science Editor

Cleveland, Jan. 3.—The earth weighs six thousand million million million tons. In figures it is 6 followed by 21, ciphers, thus: 6,000,000,000,000,000,000,000

So said Dr. Paul R. Heyl famous physicist of the U. S. Bureau of Standards in an address before members of the American Association for Advancement of Science, about "The Weighing of the Earth.

Among several novel science presentations in various fields, one of general interest was that of Dr. E. M. East of Harvard University, who predicted that in the year 2000 A. D., the world's population would be 3,300,000,000. The resulting hybrid mankind would be divided into three types Indita's caste system. The superior castes would be those whose "genes" or inheritance qualities would be superior.

Injured Fisherman Rushed to Hospital

John Evans of Gloucester, member of the crew of the fishing trawler, Elizabeth and Ruth, of Gloucester was rushed to the Marine Hospital, Chelsea, early today when the ship reached here after a five day trip from Georges Banks, where Evans was injured.

Capt. Allen Ponte said Evans had caught his left foot in a wire while the crew were hauling nets. Three toes were severed and the other two crushed, the captain said.

Prince Oscar Goes Under Knife

Potsdam, Germany Jan. 3 (AP) Prince Oscar, fifth son of the former kaiser, was operated on today for appendicitis at the city hospital by great Berlin personal physician of the former kaiser.

EXTRA SESSION FEAR SEEMS TO BE DWINDLING

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—The administration leaders in the Senate expressed confidence today, even in the fact of new opposition threats, that the necessary business of Congress could be completed by March 4 and an extra session avoided.

An impression was current there would be a statement shortly from President Hoover on his intentions regarding the World Court. The leaders have held that a definite assurance he would not call a special session for its ratification would simplify disposal of the legislative program.

NO PLAN FOR FILIBUSTER

The new emera railroad consolidation plan had brought a fresh extra session threat from Senator Brookhart (R.), Iowa, who said he would "do all I can to force an extra session to obtain an investigation" unless the House passed the Couzens resolution to suspend all rail unifications for a period.

Besides Brookhart, Senators Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, have said an extra session should be held, but there has been no indication of concerted effort for a filibuster.

TWO SENATE SURVEYS

Adding to the task of 11 appropriation bills it must pass—three of them already through the House—the Senate will begin Tuesday an independent survey of the unemployment and drought relief situation to determine whether its members wish to push legislation not included in the administration's emergency program. The latter was completed before the Christmas recess.

A possibility appeared that the power issue might be put over into the next Congress unless an agreement between Senate and House is reached during next week on Muscle Shoals. The House conferees have come almost all the way to the Senate's position for government operation of the power plant, but so far have balked at the building of government transmission lines to adjacent municipalities.

Boy Held as Bootlegger

New York Jan. 3 (INS)—A 16-year-o'd boy was held here today, charges with violation of prohibition laws. He was arrested with three men on charges of operating a 250-gallon still. He said he was a high school student.

Hines, Vet Administrator, in Answer to Loan Critics

Washington, Jan. 3 (AP)—Veterans administrator Hines replied today to criticism that interest rates for veterans' loans were too high by declaring that rates throughout the country are below the maximum 6 per cent that may be charged.

At the same time, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, chairman of the veterans' subcommittee on hospital construction, asserted the tide of sentiment favoring cash payments on veterans' adjusted compensation certificates was endangering needed hospital legislation.

Contending that "more good would be accomplished by building needed hospital additions at present than by giving the veterans cash for their certificates, Mrs. Rogers said wives and children of veterans favored the government retaining the certificates until their maturity in 1934 when "they would have better use of the money."

Administrator Hines, said interest rates charged by the bureau and the banks depend on the rediscount rate charged by the Federal Reserve districts, being 2 per cent above the banks rediscount rate up to 6 per cent.

In New York, he said, the prevailing rate for veterans is 4 per cent, Cleveland and Boston 5 per cent and all other regional offices 5½ per cent.

THE LAST MILE -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER 36

AS DICK seemed to choke a little, Father O'Connors said:

"Sancti. Amen. Now, my son, do you believe in God?"

"Yes, Father."

"In His only Son, Our Lord?"

"I do, Father."

"Aw," young Mayor growled.

"Hush up, it helps a guy," Mears told him.

"Do you believe in forgiveness of sin through the resurrection of the body, and Life everlasting?"

"I do, Father."

"Taken the name of God in vain?"

"An awful lot, Father."

"No, Father."

"Procured, desired or hastened the death of anyone?"

"I—huh? Hastened? Father, that girl slapped me. I pushed her away because I wouldn't sock a girl; she fell on a rock and it killed her—if that hastened her death, I'm guilty, but I didn't murder her and I didn't mean to hurt her, honestly I didn't; it was all an accident."

"God is merciful to those who have faith—begin here and read."

"O, my God, I am heartily sorry for having offended Thee, and I detest all my sins, because I dread the loss of heaven and the pain of hell, but most of all because they offend Thee, my God, who are all, good and deserving of my love. I firmly resolve, with the help of Thy grace to confess my sins, to do penance and to amend my life. Amen—and I haven't much life left to amend, Father——"

Mental Suffering

"All will be well with you, my son, if you are honest in your confession."

"I hope so."

"All that doesn't take away the hell of the last mile he's gotter walk in a damn few minutes," Mayor shouted.

"Shut up! Fool!" Mears called to him.

"The last mile is easier than the long mile others have to do," Dick said, suddenly.

Father O'Connors turned to him

"What do you mean, my son?"

"Oh, I'll suffer walking down through the green door—I know the last mile will be hell for me, but even Christ suffered in Gothsemane, didn't He?"

"He suffered for our sins, son. He was not afraid to die!"

"Perhaps. What I mean is this—take my mother now——," a sob escaped him but he got hold of himself.

"Hol-mes," Werner wailed.

"When I go I'm through. Mother has got to live on. Every time she reads of an electrocution she'll think of me—every time she sees a picture of the chair, she'll think of how I sat in one every time execution is mentioned, everything—Father—all her life, will be torture and misery and hell for my mother—my mile is short and over, her mile is all through her days—because this —— —— is murdering me for something I didn't do!"

"Son, if all you sons of mothers would think of this beforehand——"

"I didn't murder that girl—and if I had it wouldn't change what I said."

"Now you had better sleep a little."

"Could you sleep if you were in my place, Father?"

"That's a hot one, Kid!" Mayor yelled.

"Shut your mouth," Mears commanded.

"You ought to sleep, Mears."

"I can't. I can't see him, but I know what he looks like and I know what he's going through in there."

"He is taking it like a man, Mears."

"He has faith in God, Mears."

"That's out with me—if it helps a guy, O. K., but prove to me there's another world—prove one thing to me!"

"You have got to have faith."

Preparations

At this point two guards came in with one of the convicts from the "Big House," who was a barber. Dick was trying to read one of the prayers that Father O'Connors marked for him. Drake went to the door of seven and unlocked it.

"Come on out, Walters," he said. "What time is it? It isn't time yet—I thought——"

Dick picked up some oranges, some magazines, a pipe and a book. He brought them out.

"I want to give these to the boys," he said.

"No," Drake said.

"Let him," O'Flaherty said, and to Dick, "go ahead."

"Sit down, Seven," Drake said, harshly, and turned to Peddie. "What about his head?"

"Nothing doing with that headshaving for me. Think I want my mother to pass out when they take me back and she see me?"

"I'm not asking you," Drake growled.

"The warden told me he needn't if he didn't want to," Peddie said in a low voice. Mears heard it and said: "Ya-a-ah, Drake!" and made derisive sounds.

"All right, be a fool," Drake said to Dick, scowling. "you're carry, but don't say later I didn't warn you. With your hair on it will take wice as many shots of the juice."

"And after that, how can I say you didn't warn me?" Dick wanted to know.

"Sing something, Sunny—will you?" Dick called out.

"Gawd, Mister Walters, I—I caya't—I'a sort of sick—I'll try, though—what you want?"

"Anything. What time is it?"

"Shit after," Peddie said.

"After what? Not eleven. Did I get—"

"Half-past ten—hold still, I have to shave your leg."

"Boy, my time's getting short!"

"Boy, gimme a slug of that!"

"Did you think I was going to take 'em out and hock 'em?" Dick asked.

"They're afraid you'll kill yourself with 'em," Mayor said, "they done that to me before my stay came."

They locked Dick back in his cell.

"Eat one of these oranges, boy," Kirby said, reaching it around through the bar for Dick to take.

"God, I hate to go."

The Last Hour

"What if I shouldn't get that stay?"

Mayor said, "Don't let it get you."

"It got you, just before your stay came," Mears called out.

"What if I shouldn't get that stay?"

"You'll get it," Kirby spoke up.

"But what if I shouldn't? What if I shouldn't?"

"I did, you will——"

"Yeah, YOU did, Mayor, but what if I shouldn't? WHAT IF I SHOULDN'T GET A STAY?"

"Stay there—on your feet, Walters, you've been doing swell—best of any I've seen or heard of," Mears spoke up, soothingly.

"Keep by me, you guys. Sing something, Sunny——"

"I'a prayhig hard."

"Keep it up—I've got to think of things, keep my mind off that last mile—God if I had a drink—how many minutes have I got left—if I had a drink——"

"It's against the rules, Walters, but here——"

DAY COACH RATE PLAN WATCHED

Chicago, Jan. 3 (AP)—George J. McGuire, secretary of the Western Passenger Association, said today eastern railroads probably would follow trans-Mississippi lines if their experiment with day coach rates of two cents a mile is successful.

Until June 30 travelers can buy tickets from Chicago, St. Louis and all other points west of the Mississippi to the Pacific coast and some parts of Western British Columbia, at $77.20 for standard fare, $65 for tourist accommodations or $50 for day coach seats.

McGuire said eastern roads were anxiously awaiting the result of the effort to compete with motor bus and private automobiles.

IL DUCE LAUDS ITALIAN ART

Rome, Jan. 3 (AP)—Putting aside politics, Premier Mussolini today made his second speech of the year on art, revealing himself a connoisseur of painting and sculpture.

"Art has always been one of Italy's great spiritual forces," the Premier declared, "even in periods of political decadence, when Italy's population was divided.

"Today Italy is a great people. In these conditions art pleases me even more, because it is united up with a period of political decadence, but to a period of political and moral ascension."

3 Women, Man Killed in Steam Bath Blast

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 3 (AP)—Word arrived here today of the death of three women and one man and the injury of 10 other women on New Year's Day in the Galician town of Horodenka. The women were taking a steam bath in accordance with the Jewish rite when a boiler exploded, killing three of the women and a fireman.

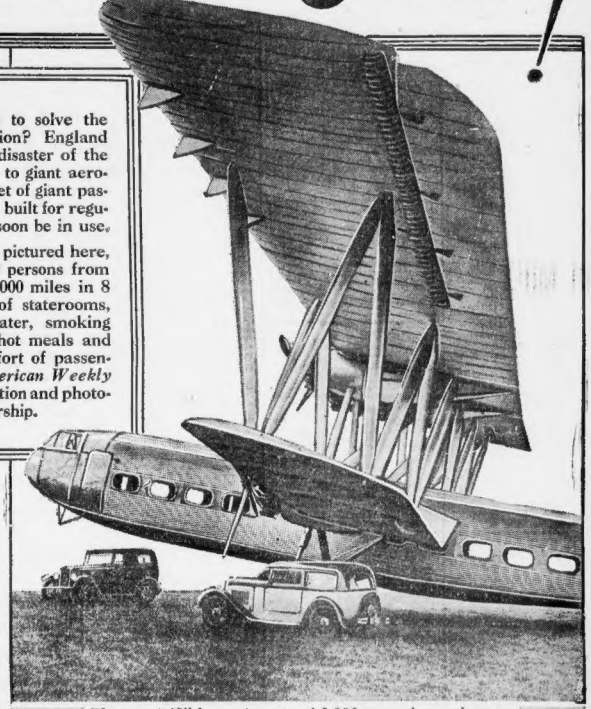
TO CARRY 42 PEOPLE 10,000 MILES in 8 DAYS!

HAS the dirigible failed to solve the problem of aerial transportation? England thinks so! After the tragic disaster of the R-101 she now pins her faith to giant aeroplanes. The first of a new fleet of giant passenger planes, the largest ever built for regular commercial service, will soon be in use.

The new marvel of the air, pictured here, will, it is estimated, carry 42 persons from London to South Africa—10,000 miles in 8 days. Luxurious, sound-proof staterooms, washroom with running water, smoking room, a well-equipped bar, hot meals and unique features for the comfort of passengers. Next Sunday The American Weekly will publish a full page description and photographs of this remarkable airship.



The giant "42" has a wing area of 3,000 square feet, and a gross weight of 27,100 pounds.

Fashionable Photographic Freaks

A well-known young society photographer has started a new fad in portraits. It is a new idea in portraiture to emphasize the individual charms of a woman—to get away from the conventional bouquet of flowers, book or pet dog in the picture. Some curious and interesting examples of this unique photographic art are shown in The American Weekly, next Sunday—you will be interested in this new photography that has captured London society.

Millions of Dollars for Bogus Antiques

A $12 copy of a portrait of Washington sold for $64,000 as a "Genuine Stuart," common china plates worth 43 cents each made over into "Van Rensselaer Antiques" at $220 apiece, 232 pieces of ordinary china sold for $51,226—and $1,000,000 said to be paid by the Kansas City Museum for an assortment of bogus art. Where do they all come from? Who buys these antiques? What happens when the fakes are discovered? The origin of these "antiques," the huge sums of money spent by gullible Americans, the size of the industry, will amaze you: next Sunday in The American Weekly.

Other Highlight Heard Tonight Is Representative Wood

Over WNAC at 9:30

With Mary Garden in the leading role of Marguerite Gautier, the Chicago Civic Opera Company will present over a NBC network including WBZA at 10 tonight, the new opera, "Camille." The other leading role will be played by Charles Hackett. Other principal players are Theodore Ritch, Chase Baromeo and Julie Coeglade.

The opera, written by a Chicago boy, Hamilton Forrest, who was once an office boy, has enjoyed success in its first two performances and is offered on the air at the time of its third presentation.

Representative Will R. Wood of Indiana, chairman of the appropriations committee of the House, will speak on the topic "The Direct Primaries—Destructive of Representative Government" in the Radio Forum heard over WNAC at 9:30 tonight.

One of the chief aids in the Hoover camp during the 1928 presidential campaign, Mr. Wood also directed the work of the Republican national congressional committee during the campaign just closed. He is a veteran of Indiana and national politics having permits 18 years in the Indiana State Legislature and 16 years in the House of Representatives.

Famous Poet

EDGAR A. GUEST, poet-philosopher, who will be heard each week during the Graham-Paige Hour. The first broadcast will be tomorrow evening at 9:30 over WNAC.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

Some very interesting figures have come to hand which show what an important part has been played by radio through our chief executive and other high governmental officials during the year that has just passed.

This information tells us that President Hoover has talked over the radio 27 times this year, a presidential 12-month record. In the 22 months since he entered the White House, he has spoken 37 times, according to records of the National Broadcasting Co. During the seven years that Mr. Coolidge was President he talked over the radio 37 times.

During the past year (1930) the United States government used approximately 450 broadcasting hours compared with 225 hours in 1929. It is estimated that this current year the government will exceed 600 hours. Last year the government was the largest individual user of broadcasting. A compilation shows that 329 government officials spoke over the radio making 850 addresses. Every department of the government was represented in the list of speakers.

Of the cabinet members, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde spoke most frequently, making 10 addresses. Thirty-four Senators and 37 members of the House were among the speakers.

Without doubt the harassed and exceedingly busy members comprising the Federal Radio Commission at Washington, will have some very knotty problems to solve this coming year. About the most important activity of theirs will be the settlement of the demand on the part of virtually all broadcasting stations on clear channels for 50,000 watt power licenses. Recently chief examiner Ellis A. Yost recommended that all clear channels be employed for use of 50,000 watts. The commission, however, instructed Yost to recommend individual stations for power increase and follow the existing regulation which permits big power stations on only 20 of the 40 cleared channels.

Is Miss Adams Holding Out on Us?

New Year's already three days old and not a peep out of the Prophetess of Carnegie Hall as to what the coming twelve months bodes for us mortals. Reams of typed press notices from her alert publicity men with never a word concerning dire calamities destined to overtake the human race. Can it be the stars are holding out on Miss Adams, refusing to disclose their secrets of the future, or has she peered into the distance and found it too fraught with disaster to make a disclosure concerning it? If we are going to have a lot of hard luck, and the world is going to pot, we'd like to get a line on it now and be somewhat prepared for it.

And now science is utilizing radio, or rather its waves, in combating disease; not through health talks and instruction alone but by the very waves themselves. It has found that short radio waves are effective weapons against diphtheria. Two noted doctors in their experiments have found that diphtheria toxin is diminished in strength by the action of short electric waves. Their experiments point to the use of the waves as a preventative rather than as a direct cure. But the value of even that is inestimable.

If you are a stickler for exact truths in all things then it is possible that the 15-minute program of "Uncle Bill and the Twins" over WBZ-WBZA every Wednesday and Saturday at 5 o'clock might not appeal to you. But if a dash or two of good-humored fabrication, as related of "Uncle Bill" in his account of a voyage in the Sally Ann to the Congo, in search of the fierce, man-eating Grunnybunk, has any attraction why not get an ear-full this afternoon at five.

The voice of Walter Woolf, star of the dramatic production "Ladies All" playing at the Majestic Theater, will be heard in a special broadcast of the outstanding songs of his present and previous successes from the Shepard Stores station WNAC and over the Yankee network this evening from 6:30 to 6:45.

COMING OUT OF THE ETHER . . . With the coming of the new year, "Hank Simmons' Show Boat" will introduce a special series of shows for lovers of the thrillers of yesteryear. Tonight over WNAC at 10 listeners will be heard weekly beginning tomorrow over WNAC at 9:30. So far the best radio news of the new year . . . "Song hits of 1930" have started. Over WBZA at 8:30 tonight the first in a series of what will probably amount to a few hundred will be played by the Fuller orchestra led by Don Voorhees . . . A new program of modern music will pervade the ether as the Musical Doctors inaugurate a series of half hour broadcasts over WBZA at 9:30 tonight. Milton Rettenberg leads the orchestra and soloists will be Clyde Doerr, saxophonist; George Green, xylophonist, and Charles Kaspbarek, accordion artist. A brand new guest artist will appear each week . . . "When the Bloom Is on the Rye" will be the featured song on Sandy MacFarlane's program heard on WBZA at 7:30 tonight. "Pale Face, King of Chinatown," will be the subject of a gripping narrative which Ernest Hill will relate.

HEARST LAUDED AS FRIEND OF VETERANS

William Randolph Hearst was extolled as a consistent friend of the veterans at a luncheon conference on legislation called by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the Boston City Club yesterday.

Dr. Julian D. Lucas, department commander, who called the conference, presided. Pledges of support were given by local Congressmen and Mayor Curley to the organization's national and state legislative programs, notably payment of bonus certificates.

Mayor Curley was represented by Asst.-Corp. Counsel Hale Power, and others present included Congressman John W. McCormack, who also represented Congressman John J. Douglass; Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger; Dept. Adt. Henry V. O'Day, and John H. Wallace, liaison officer between the V. F. W. and the Veterans' Bureau.

MR. HEARST PRAISED

At the conclusion of the meeting National Commander Wolman said:

"Mr. Hearst has always been a friend of the veterans and we are very grateful for all that he has done for the veterans and their families. He has always been a consistent friend of the veteran and we appreciate to the fullest extent what he has done for them.

"That Mr. Hearst has been a consistent friend of the veterans is evidenced by his early work in their behalf with reference to the bonus when at great expense to himself he endeavored to secure bonuses for veterans."

PLEDGED TO AID

The congressmen pledged themselves to assist the veterans in connection with their national and state programs, including full payment of the bonus, an increase of personnel at the local Veterans' Bureau, reinstatement of a day guard, and re-establishment of the office of assistant regional manager.

While Congressman Dallinger said he was in favor of bonus policies having a cash surrender value, with a 4 per cent interest charge on loans, he expressed opposition to the Wright-Patman bill which calls for immediate payment of bonus certificates.

PAY BONUS NOW

He said the certificates mature in 1945 and the interest would not have been earned if they were paid in full now. He also favored the pension plan for widows and orphans.

Congressman McCormack said he favored payment of the bonus now, partly as a means of restoring confidence. He said the government has paid off approximately $10,000,000,000 during a period when it was estimated only $3,000,000,00 would be paid, and is therefore far ahead of its program. Payment of the bonus certificate, he said, is in a sense a part of the public debt. The congressman said he had always favored pensions for widows and dependents of war veterans.

Hale Power said Mayor Curley had authorized him to draw up federal legislation in connection with veterans' projects for presentation to Congress through Congressman McCormack.

FOUR MEASURES OUTLINED

National Commander Wolman outlined the four matters in which his organization is particularly interested. One, he said, is immediate payment of the face value of the adjusted service certificates. Another is the passage of a bill to provide a pension for widows and dependents of deceased veterans.

A third is a bill to provide additional hospital and domiciliary facilities to take care of the great demand for beds in veterans' hospitals. The organization is also in favor of equalling pensions for all veterans, he said, and although not one of its main objectives, is sponsoring a bill to provide free hospital treatment for Confederate veterans.

Gracie Has Shock at Words of Cortes

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Wilda Gardner, bookkeeper in a hardware store, is in love with Logan Townsend. He is no Adonis, Wilda thinks, but "he has a rare smile." Wilda's father dies and her mother, Gracie, becomes a different woman when the lawyers say the estate will amount to $100,000. She plans a trip to Europe. Wilda has a wonderful time at a house party where Logan asks her to marry him. Myrtle, who is determined to win Logan, turns up at the dock as Wilda boards steamer for Europe. Logan's leave-taking is affectionate. In Paris Gracie becomes interested in Mr. Gigi Cortes. But Wilda sighs for Logan, and wishes he was with her. A Marquis becomes attentive to Wilda.

"I SAID I didn't know. I thought maybe later on you'd drop in and we might have a threesome?" said Gracie.

"Okay with me. I'll amuse the old man while you can dream about your dear Gigi." She bottled her chagrin, smilingly.

"Oh, Lorma, please don't make fun of me. You don't think Gigi would object to my going out with you?"

"I'll go alone if you like . . ." That would suit Lorma's book a whole lot better. "You call Bob up and suggest that I take your place, as you've got a headache."

Easy to Manage

Gracie Called a Simp

But Bob Gordon wasn't so tractable. "He insists the mountain air will do me good. He says we'll have the windows of the car down, and his chauffeur'll drive slowly."

With her hand over the mouthpiece of the instrument, Gracie looked hesitantly at Lorma.

"You don't want to make trouble with your Gigi, dear. Here, let me speak to Bob," Lorma suggested.

"About Gigi and my promise—please don't say anything!"

She cooed into the telephone. But her excuses on behalf of Gracie were in vain.

Lorma hung up, baffled. Fury and jealousy were seething within her. This man—so financially suited to herself—was crazy over Gracie, who was rich . . . "To him that hath shall be given" . . .

But she'd go too. She'd interrupt their tete-a-tete. Half a loaf was better than no bread at all . . . and later on, through what she knew about Gigi, she'd grab everything . . .

Gracie Gushed

Dreaming of Gigi

One week after the three-cornered dinner at the "Colombe d'Or," Gracie and Wilda sat in sipping cocktails "al fresco."

It was half-past six. With the Marquis and Mr. Robert Gordon they had been enjoying (Insert) selves at the tea-dance in the Casino.

Thereafter, leaving the two men, they had gone to do some shopping.

The Marquis shared a small apartment with Gigi here in Saint-Juan. Gigi was leaving Paris on the "rapide" tonight and would arrive in time for luncheon with Gracie tomorrow, so he'd written.

Bob Gordon would drive Gracie and her daughter back to Cap d'Antibes in half an hour. They were to meet him at the entrance to the Casino at seven.

"Isn't it heavenly here? Don't we have a simply marvelous life?" gushed mother to daughter. Gracie was dreaming of Gigi Cortes . . . of their luncheon on the morrow.

And suddenly, directly below the foliage-entwined railing that separated them from the street a few feet below, she heard HIS voice! Out of a thousand tones she'd recognize that charming voice of Gigi's . . . ! He was quite close . . .

GARRETT NOTIFIED TRIAL OPENS TUESDAY

Boy Falls to Death in Elevator Shaft

DEATH COMES INSTANTLY IN PLUNGE

Body of Raymond Seneca Hurtles Four Stories; the Police Start Probe

Raymond Seneca, 18, of 36 Clifton st., North Cambridge, plunged to his death in an elevator shaft in a building on Broad st., today. He was rushed to the Haymarket Relief Station, where death was pronounced due to a crushed chest and internal injuries.

According to an eyewitness' story told police, Seneca's body body came hurtling down the shaft past the second floor, and it is thought that he fell either from the third or fourth floor.

Police are investigating the cause of Seneca's fall in an endeavor to determine why he visited any office higher in the building than the second floor, where he visited for the Arcade Typewriter Company, by whom he was employed.

BEVERLY POLICE CHIEF RESIGNS

John S. Welch, for six years chief of the Beverly Police Department, today tendered his resignation to Mayor Roy K. Patch, the resignation to become efective immediately.

Mayor Patch, following the acceptance of Welch's resignation, restored him to his former rank of lieutenant and appointed him acting chief until Monday, when the new mayor, James A. Torrey, will make the appointment.

Welch stated he resigned because of the change of administration.

Welch has been a member of the police department for 21 years, and held the rank of lieutenant four years before being made chief. He was appointed to the chief's position by a former mayor, the late William Stopford.

Mayor-elect Torrey takes office Monday noon, and is expected to announce Welch's successor immediately.

Fisk Rubber Co. Receivers Named

Roland A. Boyden of Beverly and Charles A. Dana of New Jersey today were appointed receivers in equity for the Fisk Rubber Co. by Federal Judge James A. Lowell. With appointment of the receivers Judge Lowell announced the action of the Chase National Bank for the first mortgage bond holders, and the Central Hanover Trust Co. for the note holders, will be consolidated.

Mayor Curley Named to Civic Society

Officials of the American Civic Association, an organization of public-spirited men and women from all sections of the nation, today informed Mayor Curley that he had been elected to membership in that body.

The association has headquarters in Washington and during the 25 years of its existence has done much to promote movements to preserve natural outdoor beauty spots and to build up a national park system.

Saved in Dorchester Fire

LILLIAN HECHT, seven, and her pup "Queenie" were carried down ladders to safety early today when fire swept through her home, a three-story apartment house at 102-112 Talbot ave., Dorchester. It was the second fire in the house within a week.

Church Party Invited to Bohemian Brew Fest

The brew is ready. The invitations are out, and even a Lowell Christian Endeavor society is invited to H. Elisha "Chick" Marston's big foam and froth party in Boston's new Greenwich Village during the week of January 12.

With several hundred bottles of nice creamy beer awaiting only the chill of the ice, "Chick," book store proprietor in Fayette st., today decided to let the party ride, even in the face of possible police intervention.

His first act was to send invitations to the members of the Kirk Street Church Christian Endeavor Society, of Lowell, of which he was a former president.

"They are all friends of mine," he said. "They'll be down with bells on."

Marston reached his final decision regarding the beer party for his thirsty patrons today when he received the following communication from Commissioner of Public Safety A. F. Foote:

"Replying to your communication of December 27, I will say that I have never received from the Attorney-General any opinion on the subject matter of your letter. Furthermore, I do not contemplate asking an opinion on this matter."

"Chick" has had no bed of roses in arranging his mail and hop feast. When he conceived the idea he asked Atty. Gen. Warner for an opinion as to the legality of dispensing free home brew. The latter, however, informed the purveyor of books that requests for opinions had to come from a State official.

And now that Commissioner Foote refused to dip his hands into the affair, Marston has decided to go "on with the party."

Meanwhile, he continues to brew his beer refusing to brood over any subsequent consequences that may befall him after the party is over.

HUNGRY COUPLE ROB CABMAN, LOOT HOUSE

Youth and Girl Flee in Stolen Auto; Dine at Absent Harvard Student's

Driven to desperation by hunger, a youth and girl robbed a taxi driver late last night, stole his cab for their getaway, and then fearing to eat in a public place, early today broke into a Harvard student's apartment, dined and disappeared.

While they were eating virtually everything they could find in the pantry of the Cambridge apartment, and touching nothing else, Boston and Cambridge police were combing the two cities in search of them.

They entered the apartment by prying off a screen. When the janitor discovered their presence, he ordered them out, thinking it was a prank by friends of the student, who was away for the holiday.

Later when he discovered the abandoned taxicab outside, he reported to police and the description he gave of the couple tallied with that of the robbed cab driver.

The apartment is that of Gerard Carton, of 60 Kirkland st., Cambridge. Police made fingerprint photographs for comparison with records on file. They believe, however, that they are husband and wife, with no past records, and actually driven to desperation by lack of work, as they told Cornelius Chase, their cab driver victim.

3 Jailed Two Hours After Alleged Holdup

Two hours after they are alleged to have forced two men into an automobile in Washington st., driving them to Ringge Field, Cambridge, and robbing them of $48, three youths were arrested today on Massachusetts ave. by members of the Cambridge "flying squadron." They are Richard Walsh, 20, of Frank st., Cambridge; Daniel Halloran, 19, of 50 Oxford st., Arlington, and Kenneth Heap, 19, of Orchard st., Somerville. They were held under $5000 bail each. Their victims were Leo F. Donlin, 434 Dudley st., Roxbury, and Thomas F. Powers, Mt. Vernon st., Somerville.

Mrs. Perry was, before her marriage on November 29, Miss Virginia M. Creed, daughter of Mrs. Edward C. Creed, of Dorchester st., South Boston.

MISS DU PONT TO WED HUB MAN

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Eleanor F. du Pont of Wilmington, Del., to Philip G. Rust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip G. Rust of 23 Whittemore st., West Roxbury, was made today by the bride's parents.

Miss du Pont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irenee du Pont, is a graduate of the May Baldwin School in Bryn Mawr, Pa., and made her debut in Wilmington.

Rust, who is connected with the Viscose Company of Marcus Hook, Penn., was graduated from M. I. T. with the class of 1920. He is a research chemist, having been with the company for eight years. He is a member of the Wilmington Country Club. His father, Philip S. Rust, is a prominent Boston attorney, with offices on Milk st.

Irenee Du Pont, father of the bride-to-be, is chairman of the finance committee of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Co., a director in General Motors Corp., and vice-president of the Christiana Securities Co.

No date for the wedding has been set, according to advices received.

RUM ILLEGALLY TAKEN FORFEIT

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals of this city today rendered a decision declaring liquor unlawfully seized by federal officers are subject to forfeiture to the federal government.

The decision was handed down in the case of John Strong of Easton, from whose premises nearly 3000 bottles of choice liquors were taken in December, 1929, by federal prohibition officers without a search warrant. Strong objected to their search of the portion of the premises in which the liquor was stored.

In its decision the court says: "A lawful seizure is no more essential to the jurisdiction of the court to condemn liquors than is the lawful arrest of a person, produced in court to answer to an indictment or criminal information, essential to the jurisdiction to pronounce sentence. In neither case is the lawfulness of seizure or arrest of any consequence."

FOLEY, DOYLE ALL READY FOR BIG FIGHT

Sixty Prosecution Witnesses Called; Police Must Tell Superiors of Testimony First

Official notification that they must go to trial in Suffolk Superior Court Tuesday on conspiracy and extortion charges was received today by the three defendants, Oliver B. Garrett, former leader of the police headquarters liquor raiders, his wife and Mrs. Lillian V. Hatch, one-time check room custodian at the Hotel Ritz.

Preparations were made at the courthouse to handle the hundreds who will seek admittance to the room where the trial takes place.

FOLEY, DOYLE READY

Dist.-Atty. Foley conferred with his chief assistant, Frederick T. Doyle, straightening out various problems which have arisen in the preparation of the evidence, which will be given to the jury by more than 60 government witnesses.

Official notification of the trial date was sent to the defendants and their attorney, Herbert F. Callahan, by John H. Campbell, clerk of the Suffolk Superior Court, criminal division.

Callahan said he received notice that six charges would be heard. Because of revised numbering of indictments with the new year, he said he would have to confer with Clerk Campbell to find out just which ones the government is to press at this time.

Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley cited a police order of long-standing today to support his statement that all officers called to testify must so notify their superiors, and that none can testify voluntarily either for the defense or for the state.

POLICE TO TESTIFY

"Is it true that officers who are summoned must give their captains an outline of the testimony they are to give on the witness stand?" the superintendent was asked.

"I don't care either to affirm or deny that portion of the story just now," he replied. "But it is a fact a custom in all such cases to ask officers how it happens that they are considered to be witnesses for the defense.

"It is a departmental rule that police officers cannot testify voluntarily without permission. In that case."

Two Youths Plead Guilty in Robbery

While attempting to escape with 73 cartons of cigarettes, alleged loot in a chain store robbery in Somerville, two youths were captured early today after a chase of several blocks. They are Arthur Witham, 17, of 50 Pitman st., and Francis Klodner, 20, of 83 Concord ave., both of Somerville. Police say they have been engaged in a series of similar thefts.

Klodner was arrested as he hid in a yard on Spring st., while Witham was arrested at his home. Both were held in $15,000 bail each when arraigned before Judge Sturtevant in Somerville district court on charges of burglary. They pleaded guilty to this morning's robbery on Highland ave. and also to two other jobs.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned into the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

HOPE RUNS HIGH FOR NEW YEAR

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

JUST ANOTHER year for the theaters, with hope rising high. Always the last to abandon ship, the ardent showman is also the first to glimpse the well known silver lining, etc. In these perilous moments, optimism may have its threadbare patches, but poverty is not enough to empty the seats of the mighty. From every point from which springs good drama, comes word that the reverses of 1930 are forgotten and that 1931 will be assailed with old-fashioned vigor.

* * *

THERE MAY be some curtailment in the plans of those producers melting up the minor circuits, but with the majors, chiefly the Shuberts, there will be no retreat in the matter of production. There may be an occasional flank movement in the interest of economy, but the business of keeping theaters open will have strict attention. This, of course, means production—and production means courage as well as vision. Having the greater number of playhouses for which to provide profitable tenants, the Shuberts, naturally, will sit up a little later nights to provide ways and means. Lee Shubert, who takes his theater without music, already has launched a promising program of drama, domestic and foreign.

Nicholas Young

* * *

TURNING TO MUSICAL play production, the 1931 handicap becomes something of a free-for-all. For the Shuberts are faced with a broad field of none too friendly entrants, all of whom have the vital urge as well as the means of doing business. Of these Ziegfeld, Zimmerstein, Earl Carroll and a few others may be expected to make themselves known with new assortments in fluff and feminie. By some trick of fate or lapse at booking headquarters, Boston will face the first full week of the new year without a musical show. The departure of "The Street Singer" leaves the tired business man without a decent excuse for night work at the office. This is almost, if not positively, a record in our affairs of the theater. The stringency will not be eased until Jan. 19 when "A Wonderful Night" takes the Shubert stage for better or for worse.

WITH EVERYTHING to forget and nothing to remember from the 1930 speculations, Mr. J. M. Heck, judge advocate and chief of staff for the Mutual Burlesque Association, may find consolation in the fact that the defections in his circuit were no greater than they might have been. Viewing the season in retrospect, the slump in burlesque reflected nothing more than the general slowing up of interest in nocturnal amusement.

PERHAPS THE MOST promising of the drama's gifts for the new year is the return of the Copley as an active post of flight entertainment. This venture by the Underhill-DiFranco-Crowell triumvirate—each an old-timer in new vestment—demands on its own account the friendly attention of everyone who scorns high prices.

Theater Lights Brighten as Tin Turns the Corner to Vision the Drama on the Climb

PATRICIA CHAPMAN

VERA ALLEN

VIOLET KEMBLE COOPER

PHYLLIS ELGAR

MAY COLLINS

Delectable

MARLENE DIETRICH

MISS DIETRICH shows her ability in "The Blue Angel." (Uptown and Olympia.)

SHAW HAS HIS OWN LAUGH

Bernard Shaw, author of "The Apple Cart," which the Theatre Guild is presenting at the Tremont, likes to poke fun at New York. When the Guild produced the last Shaw play, "Saint Joan," Theresa Helburn informed the author that Guild was using the French pronunciation of "Rheims and also of "Dauphin."

"Terry dear," wrote Shaw, "you know but little of the world. The population of New York is 5,620,048. The odd 48 know what the French call Rheims, and themselves call it variously Range, Wrongs, Rass or Rums. The other 5,620,000 wonder what the h are Crying to say and call it Reems. The 48 also call the Dauphin the Dough-fang or the Doe-fang.

"You had better do what I tell you every time, because I am older than you—at least my fancy pictures you younger, and very beautiful."

AUDIENCE IS BAFFLED BY NEW MUSIC

By MOSES SMITH

After considerable advance notices and some mixing up of signals, the "Sonata Liturgique" of Arthur Lourie, Russian composer now living in Paris, is presented as the novel feature of this week's program of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. It is preceded by Beethoven's first symphony and followed by Strauss' tone-poem, "Ein Heldenleben."

Lourie's sonata, which was presented for the first time in this country, is in the form of four chorals. Two of these are purely instrumental, the other two call in the aid of a dozen alto voices. The ecclesiastical mood is established with the opening notes, and is maintained throughout.

Perhaps the most astonishing thing about this work is that the composer has had the temerity to use a harmonic scheme that is substantially free from dissonance. Even in churchly music, such a procedure is a surprise in this day and year. Yet there is, none the less, a haunting strangeness in this music. Largely it is due to the choice and number of instruments, which include merely for double-basses and a single solo instrument from each of the various wind and brass types, and a piano. The music alloted the last-named instrument comes closest to the harsh dissonance.

The performance of the Strauss tone-poem was brilliant and marked by imaginative insight on the part of the leader. Here and there (as in the Symphony, also) there was a minor slip by a solo instrument. But the essential Strauss was captured beautifully. Richard Burgin played the important violin solo with ravishing tone.

NEW BILL FOR REPERTORY

The Screen Guild's second offering at the Repertory, beginning next Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, will be a double feature bill consisting of "The Loves of Casanova," a French production, and "Berlin."

"The Loves of Casanova" was directed by Alexander Volkoff, and starring Ivan Mosjoukin. Mosjoukin is in his element in the role of Casanova. He gives to the part of the philanderer a sense of humor.

The co-feature, "Berlin," is also known as the "Symphony of a Big City," and really is that.

By WALTER ABEL

Actor in "Rebound," at the Copley

The conviction is firm in my mind that the American drama is on the upward trend. And unlike many who predict a drab future for the legitimate stage, I think the talkies are a help rather than a hindrance.

A factor that has contributed largely to the revival of the American drama has been the little theater movement all over the United States. It is amazing what these groups of determined young artists have accomplished. From the most unpretentious beginnings, sometimes in an isolated spot so far away that Broadway doesn't even know of its existence, there have been developed some of the finest productions of really good drama that we've had.

Walter Abel

Sometimes these little theaters are civic enterprises, and sometimes they are sponsored by individuals, but in one way or another they have clearly demonstrated that there is both a need and an audience for capably directed, well acted, artistically set plays. And as for the talkies, they fill a spot in the entertainment field that's invaluable. They reach vaster audiences, of course, but on the whole, in my opinion, their effect is to direct the attention of more people than ever before to the possibilities of the legitimate stage.

Boston, which has for many years supported liberally all branches of the arts, is the logical choice in the East for a resident company to produce plays that have enjoyed marked success in New York and elsewhere. Our welcome and our reception here have been most gratifying.

Viennese Dancer Will Make Bow Wednesday

There are four solo numbers on the dance concert program which Hans Wiener, young Viennese dancer, will give at his Boston debut in Jordan hall next Wednesday evening. Louis Horst, famous pianist, who was with Ted Shawn for 10 years, and later was accompanist for Harold Kreutzberg and Yvonne Georgi, will play.

Boston Symphony to Have Two Guest Conductors

There will be two guest conductors of the Boston Symphony Orchestra following its trip to New York which will occupy the coming week. The concerts in Symphony Hall on January 16 and 17, and in Sanders Theater, Cambridge, on January 15, will be directed by Henry Hadley. The following pair of concerts on January 23 and 24 will be conducted by E. Fernandez Arbos.

Puts the Bar in Barrister

LEE BAKER

MR. BAKER IS A JUDGE in "Strictly Dishonorable" at the Colonial, but his role doesn't bar him from stepping up to the bar when bench and bar get together for fun.

LARDNER HAS LIKING FOR GEORGES

By RING LARDNER

Co-Author of "June Moon," at the Wilbur.

One difference between Mr. Kaufman and me is that he selects his collaborators at random (and a mighty pretty place, too), while I make it a rule never to work with anybody I can't call George. My first play-writing was done with a porter on the Seaboard Air Line.

Last year, as is almost too well known, I turned out "Elmer the Great," with George M. Cohan. This season I am teaming with Mr. Kaufman. And in 1931 I expect to pair off with George B. Shaw, an announcement which may surprise even Bernie himself.

Readers are probably in a coma to be told the various working methods employed by me and my different Georges. In the case of the porter, if you would call our little flirtation a case, I spent the night in an upper, while he sat in the washroom and shone shoes.

Mr. Cohan's and Mr. Kaufman's systems are quite a lot alike; you give them your script and they throw it in the ash barrel after copying the names of the characters so they can change the. Mr. Cohan has less leisure and gets rid of your stuff in one hunk, while Mr. Kaufman tosses out a scene at a time.

Returning to the subject of our play, "June Moon," Mr. Kaufman, an extremist at heart, suggested that we emulate "Journey's End," which has no women characters, and "One Beautiful Evening." He said he wouldn't think of giving a play such a title (because it might surprise them and run twice that long), and that he'd write one in which all the parts are taken by leopards. Or else not write one at all. I don't know what he finally decided. You will have to judge for yourself. "June Moon" is Mr. Kaufman's title, and it's his play—unless it's good.

RISES 'EARLY' AT 11 A. M.

Grace George, delightful comedienne in "The First Mrs. Fraser," at the Plymouth, rises at 11 in the morning, which means the middle of the night to most actors and actresses. She likes Pekingese dogs, prize fights, hockey games, and goes at least once a year to Coney Island.

Her favorite color is blue, with orchid as runner-up.

Sun and surf bathing occupy her summertime leisure. In winter, its bridge or translating French plays, a game she says is not unlike cross-word puzzles, only more fun because in the end one has a story.

ALLA NAZIMOVA

MME. NAZIMOVA is the star of "A Month in the Country" at Tremont, Jan. 12.

NE'ER SAW HIS FIRST FLOP

George Meeker, who nightly hides his handsome blond countenance behind a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles to play the unsympathetic part of Henry in "Strictly Dishonorable," at the Colonial, is a most versatile gentleman. He has been a producer, comedian in a musical comedy, leading man in a western "heavy" (movie version), appeared as leading and character juvenile on both stage and screen, and played with a host of famous stars during his 10 years in the theater.

"My first effort as a producer was a flop," he relates. "It opened and closed without my ever seeing it! My brother and I made the production jointly, but as soon as I approved the play I was taken to a hospital. I was deathly sick and by the time I came to, our 'Alloy' had opened and closed at the Princess Theater."

Plays Remaining

Grace George in "The First Mrs. Fraser" at the Plymouth. (Second week.) If this is divorce, let's stay married.

* * *

Walter Woolf and Violet Heming in "Ladies All" at the Majestic. (Third week.) Love in a cottage with all the fixin's. The last week.

* * *

"Strictly Dishonorable" at the Colonial. (Second week.) Rum and romance, and all of it intriguingly civil.

* * *

COLORS ARE FLYING AT THE PEAK

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

THE LOEW FESTIVE month begins with a bang. That big organization in show business has put the magnificent "Hell's Angels" into the State, for the first week of the New Year; while at the Orpheum, there is a crackerjack vaudeville show, plus the realistically done picture, "War Nurse," from the M-G-M studios. This film tells the woman's side of the heroism and hardships of the World War, and has for its leading players, Robert Montgomery, June Walker, Robert Ames, Zasu Pitts, Marie Prevost, and Anita Page.

* * *

TOPLINER OF the Orpheum's stage bill is the clever Lillian Shaw, dialect comedienne. Her sketches beget many laughs; she is evidently popular with the audience, for she has to come back for encores. The Donatellas please in a musical way. The family is versatile in its talent, and breaks into song with the same ease with which the group play their instruments. "Diversions a la Carte" is the title of an offering by Johnnie Fulton and Peggy Parker. These two interlard their act with much singing and dancing, all pleasurable to hear and to behold. Will Morris proves hilariously comic with his "bike" antics, and Fields and Georgie uncork the fun in their act. Throughout Manager Victor Morris has provided a good show as his share of the Loew Festival month of January.

* * *

OF "HELL'S ANGELS," which Manager Joseph Brennan sets forth as the chief State attraction, the thousands who saw it during its downtown run at road-show prices have spread the good word. Howard Hughes put his "everything" into its making. It was almost four years in production; the cost side of the ledger according to official statement, showed expenditures of 4,000,000, a lavish hand truly, and an unprecedented sum spent upon a motion picture. Mr. Hughes, for his masterpiece, brought airmen and experts from Europe and elsewhere; he took the greatest care that equipment and all else exactly duplicate that used in the great war. The result was the finest air picture ever filmed, and also one of the top productions of 1930.

* * *

SO SWEEPING is the drama depicted in act of Zeppelin and airplane, that the interwoven story is dwarfed into insignificance. The plot deals with the adventures of two brothers, played by James Hall and Ben Lyon; the feminine lead is Jean Harlow, a "platinum blonde" of great charm, whose success later won her star place in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer movie. She is still under long-term contract with Mr. Hughes, however. She is a vamp in "Hell's Angels," toying with the hearts of the two brothers.

"Hell's Angels" is one of the few pictures one can see again and again, and again. And enjoy it anew with each successive seeing.

The New Play

HIGH HONOR FOR HUSTON FROM MISS PARSONS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Jan. 3—If I were to name the actor who gave the most varied performances last year I should say Walter Huston. Not even Wallace Beery exceeded Mr. Huston in versatility. There was "The Bad Man," where he had charm, wickedness and fascination. There was "Lincoln," in which he was dignified, humorous and kindly. There was "Gentlemen of the Press," in which he played the typical newspaperman, and now he is to have the lead in "St. Johnson."

Louella O. Parsons

I have great respect for Junior Laemmle when he chooses a man of Huston's ability to play the lead in "St. Johnson." "St. Johnson" will await Mr. Huston's return. He has been vacationing in Europe after a particularly strenuous Hollywood season.

Yes, we do have seasons here just as they do in Newport, Palm Beach and other places, but they are work seasons instead of play seasons.

• • •

If you were to canvass the 1930 serials I have no doubt Rupert Hughes' recent novel which was carried each month in Cosmopolitan would win first prize as a popular story. Mr. Hughes calls his serial "No One Man," and it is a tale of modern youth. B. P. Schulberg, who bought the story from Rupert Hughes, is planning a 100 per cent youth talkie cast.

• • •

Plays continue to be popular with the film producers. Successful stage plays and some that are not so successful are purchased almost as soon as they appear on Broadway. This notwithstanding that out of the lists of 10 best pictures of the year just passed most of the best plays were those that were adapted from books or original screen stories. I speak of "All Quiet On the Western Front," "Divorcee," "Min and Bill," "Laughter," "Her Man," "The Dawn Patrol," "Just Imagine" and others. Warners, however, have had good luck with plays and so they are continuing to buy them. "Lovely Lady," for instance, has just been purchased by Jack Warner and will go into production shortly. This is by Jesse Lynch and will be adapted by Wilson Mizner and Huston Branch.

PRONTO CALL FOR POLICE

Germaine Giroux left that dear old France three years ago to appear on the American stage, but already has her own opinion about our theater as compared to that of the rest of the world. The Parisian actress is now playing one of the important roles in Prince Antoine Bibesco a comedy, "Ladies All" at the Majestic.

"The way our play, 'Ladies All,' has been adapted by Elmer Harris is just right," she says. "There's exactly the proper amount of piquancy to make it interesting. In the original play they have scenes that would bring the police around pronto."

Iturbi Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, Jose Iturbi will give a recital in Symphony Hall. The great Spanish pianist will then play: Sonata in A major, by Schubert; Etudes symphoniques, by Schumann; Deux pochades andalouses, by Infante; The Puppet, from Grandos "Goyescas"; Tempo di Marcia funebre, by Lazar; Petrouchka, by Stravinsky.

AN EVERYDAY CHAP IS STAR

Walter Huston, who plays the stellar roles in Columbia Pictures' "The Criminal Code," now showing at RKO Keith's, is not a matinee idol. He is a rugged, natural chap and seems at first a bit reserved.

Huston believes one should never interpret a role but live it —feel it. Roles must be portrayed honestly, naturally, not just with the idea that one must act, he says.

Bowdoin Square

Beginning tomorrow and continuing for the first half of the week, the Bowdoin Square will present "The Bat Whispers," mystery thriller with Chester Morris and Una Merkle. Another offering will be "A Devil With Women" with Victor MacLaglen "Blood and Thunder" will be another. The Lido Venice Girls in a new bill will be on the stage Wednesday is cabaret night. Beginning Thursday the features will offer Winnie Lightner in "The Life of the Party," and "Brothers," with Bert Lytell and Dorothy Sebastian.

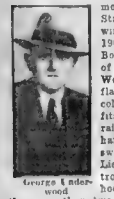
Bruins Greatest Combination in Hockey History

How Ice Stars of Present Day Teams Compare With Past

ALWAYS YOUNGSTERS RISE AND SHINE

Don't know who "sicced" them on us but they are on our trail. Here are two letters from hockey fans—no, three, for here's another—and all three ask us questions on matters of opinion, not fact. One wants us to write something on the greatest hockey player we ever saw. The other two would like us to "name the greatest team in hockey history." One of 'em says it is "to decide a bet." We never decide bets involving matters of opinion. Don't like to decide bets, anyway, but in a pinch are willing to do so on differences which can be decided by official records or established facts. Answering questions on matters of opinion is a nice Machiavellian way of getting "in Dutch." No matter how "right" you are, you're wrong. There never yet has been a sports jury which handed down a unanimous verdict. The millenium will be reached and the Golden Age arrive when experts agree.

But in our humble personal opinion the best hockey team that ever took the ice, and we have seen most of the Stanley Cup winners since 1904, is the Boston Bruins of 1929-30-31. We have seen flashier, more colorful outfits, but we'll raise our right hand and swear by St. Lindwi, the patron saint of hockey, that in the more than two decades we have been looking 'em over, we've never seen a team of such all around uniform strength in offense and defense as the present Boston Bruins.



George Underwood

Official hockey records tend to substantiate our opinion. The record set by Art Ross' squad last season, 38 games won, 1 tied and only 5 lost, is unprecedented in hockey and may never be equalled.

The Ottawa Senators of 1903-4-5 was a great team, and so was the Montreal Wanderers of 1906-7-8. Tith put either of these outfits on the ice today, and in our humble personal opinion it would have to play second fiddle to the Bruins.

The fan who asked us to name the greatest player we ever saw has awakened a flood of memories. What a flock of truly great hockey players there really has been.

Hod Stewart, Cyclone Taylor, Joe Hall, Joe Malone, Newsy Lalonde, Lester Patrick, Con Carbeau, Didier Pitre—they flash across memory's screen like meteors across the sky.

Not only professionals but amateurs, too, and collegians, too. The flashiest, most colorful forward we ever saw was the late Hobey Baker of Princeton. And Art Liffiton, Jimmy Shirreff and Billy Dobby of the old amateur Crescents of Brooklyn shone just as brilliantly as any star in the professional hockey firmament.

BAKER, STUART, MORENZ

Hobey Baker was a streak of greased lightning. He could dodge and double like a scared jackrabbit and was as elusive as a will o' the wisp.

When news came from Over There that Hobey had Gone West in a plunging, burning airplane, we thought to ourself that as a hockey player we never should see his like again.

Years before we had thought the same of Hod Stewart. He was our boyhood hero. Records show he was one of the fastest, most brilliant players Canadian professional hockey ever developed. But in our eyes he was a superman. Around his head was a halo, we placed there as a youthful hero worshipper. To this day we sometimes doubt if there ever was quite so remarkable an all around player.

When poor Hod broke his neck diving into too shallow water, we thought we never should see a player like him. Then we saw Hobey Baker.

Baker, we thought, was the fastest, trickiest, most elusive fellow that ever hitched a pair of steel blades to his feet.

Then along came Howie Morenz.

Faster than Stewart, we thought Morenz, almost as fast and tricky as Baker, and a better shot and a more finished hockey product that Hobey.

Yes, the Howie Morenz you see flashing up and down the ice harassing the opposing defenses, today, is about the fastest forward that ever took the ice.

STARS OF PRESENT

We doubt if there ever was a better defense man than Eddie Shore of the present-day Bruins, and we say that after having seen most of the great points and coverpoints of the past, including our own Art Ross at the peak of his career; Ernie Johnston, "Jeffries" Taylor and other great players whose stars have set.

Shore, King Clancy, Hec Kilrea, Sylvio Mantha, Bill Cook, "Dit" Clapper, young Beattie, Happy Day, Ace Bailey, many of the players today loom just as big as the great hockey players of the past.

We are going ahead in everything. In events which can be timed by the watch or reduced to inches and parts of inches by the tape measure, we have definite proof that the stars of the present outshine those of the past. Does it not stand to reason that with more teams, more competition, more players, yes and more ice, there shouldn't be better hockey players?

There was a time when we thought there never would be a high jumper like Mike Sweeney, a broad jumper like Al Kraenslein, weight man like John Flanagan, discus thrower like Martin Sheridan, a 100 yard man like Arthur Duffy, a two-miler like Hermie Wefers, a quarter miler like Tommy Burke, a half-miler like Charlie Kilpatrick, a long distancer like Al Shrubb, or a miler like Tommy Conneff.

But Father Time and the Record Book long since have erased the figures of Sweeney, Kraenslein, Duffy, Wefers, Burke, Sheridan, Conneff and all those other old kings of the track and field. Now they are but memories.

Now they are but memories to be nursed in the hearts of the old-timers, names to be spoken fondly, lovingly, glowingly of, faces which time has crowned with a halo and whose feats and deeds are magnified, exaggerated by gazing at them through the magnifying glass of the years.

They don't time hockey players with a split second watch, or lay a tape measure on their rushes and shots.

But if there was such a thing as making a mathematical comparison between the hockey players of the past and present, isn't it reasonable to think that, just as on the track and field, the hockey stars of today equal or surpass the hockey stars of bygone years?

Ed George Tosses Worcester Matman

Pittsfield, Jan. 3—Ed George, recognized in many states as heavy weight wrestling champion, won over Axel Anderson of Worcester in two straight falls in the main go here.

George scored the first fall in 21 minutes 55 seconds with flying head scissors and armlock and the second in 8 minutes 21 seconds with flying tackle and arm spread.

Los Angeles, Jan 3 (US)—Hank Hulvey, veteran Hollywood Coast league right-hander, was sold to Chattanooga in the Southern Association, William H. Lane, star owner, announced.

TIGER-EAGLE BATTLE FOR 3RD PLACE

Lineup at Garden

TIGERS	EAGLES
Loucks, Connacher, lw	rw, Kuhn, Boucher
Burke, Wilson, Rungo, c	c, Burmeister, Chouinard
Boyd, Taylor, rw	lw, Conway, Neville
Mackey, Brander, ld	rd, Jeremiah, Hines
Foster, rd	ld, Speyer, Radley
Grant, g	g, Forbes

By BILL GRIMES

Fighting to get out of last place, their present abode in the race for the Canadian-American League championship, the Tigers and New Haven Eagles will offer a thrilling conflict tonight at the Boston Garden.

Although at this writing the Tigers and Eagles are dividing the cellar championship honors, they are only one point away from third place and tonight's victor will hop right back into the race.

Bill Grimes

Benny Grant and Jakie Forbes should feature. Grant was beaten for five goals by the Rhode Island Reds this week, but on his last appearance at the Garden he was responsible for the Tigers scoring their first victory over Providence since the advent of Sprague Cleghorn as manager of that outfit. Jumping Jakie Forbes is unbeatable when he is right, but he has found more than his match in the Tigers than any other club in the loop.

Former Dartmouth Star to Start for Eagles

Since the Eagles' last trip to the Garden, Eddie Jeremiah, the former Dartmouth all around athlete who was an eight letter man at Hanover, has won himself a regular berth. Jeremiah had considerable trouble breaking into the New Haven lineup. He reported to the club as a center ice man, but did not get any opportunity to show his wares.

Jerry never played the defense until this season, but he has developed rapidly and is now a regular.

Manager Eddie Powers will open with Eddie Burke at center, with Johnny Loucks and Yank Boyd on the wings. This combination is one of the best ever offered by the Tigers and is very popular with the fans. Burke is playing the best game of his career and now the big leagues can afford to pass him up is unexplainable, while Loucks is faster, shooting better and greatly improved in every department.

Boyd is beginning to show results from his one and a half years of reasoning and if he continues to perfect his play will get a chance to move up a grade.

Strong Eli Ice Team Plays Toronto

The Elis boast another crack outfit and will be strong favorites to win over the Canadians, who were unimpressive against Harvard last week.

Yale, so far this season, has won four games and lost none.

With the return of Red Whitehead, Toronto expects to make a belated showing that it did against Harvard. Whitehead should add much offensive and defensive strength to the invaders' lineup.

IF You Don't Know—

The announcer at the Cincinnati ball park should have a pleasant summer with such names as Asbjornson, Sigafoos, Wysong, Crabtree and Strelecki on the Reds' roster . . . Yank Yde of the Tigers is a very good infielder . . . And Jimmy Wilson, Cards' catcher, is a swell soccer player . . . Wrestling outdrew boxing by a large margin in Boston during 1930 . . . Alabama's Crimson Tide eleven will employ the Notre Dame system next fall, Frank Thomas, its new coach, being a former Rockne pupil . . . One of those Harvard-Princeton athletic wars has broken out in England . . . Uppingham and Haileybury, two public schools, have severed relations, each accusing the other of roughness in a rugby match . . . Peter B. Kyne, noted novelist, and Willard Mack, famed playwright, are members of the board of governors of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club . . . Nebraska University has decided to award letters to scrubs in basketball . . . Jack "Red" Beattie of the Bruins is rated as the classiest rookie to break into the National Hockey League in years . . . Massachusetts has as many fine junior golfers as any state in the country . . . Tom Whelan, Lynn English coach, has received many offers to become a college grid mentor . . . Gen. Daniel Needham, Maj. Charles Barbey and Capt. Theodore Pillman have composed the 101st Field Artillery polo team since the Boston Indoor Polo League was organized in 1926 . . . The average salary of a pro soccer player in this country is less than $3500 and the season is nine months long . . . And the best of European players receive even less.

NEW JUNIOR CHAMPION AND RUNNER-UP

KATHERINE WINTHROP

VICTOR AND VANQUISHED in the National junior indoor tennis championship, decided today at the Longwood Cricket Club. Miss Katherine Winthrop won the girls' junior title by defeating Miss Hilda Boehm quite easily in two sets by scores by 6—3, 6—3. Miss Winthrop succeeds to the throne formerly held by Sarah Palfrey. She has a big future ahead of her.

MICKEY WALKER GETS BLACK EYE

Lakewood, N. J., Jan. 3 (AP)—George Youmans, an assistant butcher, today chopped off a snappy statement in which he said "mather a picket fence nor George Roop had anything to do with Mickey Walker's black eye."

"I socked him," said Youmans, "Walker said something I didn't like. I didn't know who he was, but that wouldn't have made any difference. If he said it again I'd knock him again."

Jack Kearns, manager of the middleweight champion, early in the week had announced that his charge met an old friend, George Roop, on Tuesday night and Roop was a cinch to give Walker a push and Walker's eye descended on a picket fence.

Youmans's story is that he was eating in a lunch wagon at Red Bank when Walker and Kearns, neither of whom meant a thing to butcher, entered the place. Then Walker started talking—too much, thought Youmans.

"And if you don't believe I'm Walker's conqueror," Youmans said, "I'll show you my bruised shins. He kicked at me from the floor."

72 Teams in City Court Tourney

Seventy-two teams get away this evening in the annual Boston Park Department Basketball League, with about 20 others waiting their opportunities to start play.

Thirty-six games will be played tonight, the opening of the season. The nine gyms where play will be held tonight are: Cabot at, Roxbury; Columbia rd., Dorchester; Hyde Park; North Bennet, North End; Paris st, East Boston; Roslindale; Tyler st, city; Vine at., Roxbury; J. J. Williams, South End.

Military Champs Want Court Games

Co. E military basketball champions of the state, and undefeated for two years, desire games with fastest teams in New England. This team is composed of former high school and college stars. Write Pvt. Winn, 103 Fellsway West, Medford or phone Mystic 1915, between 6 and 7 p. m.

Latin in Impressive Win as Schoolboy Hockey Opens

Latin, English, Mechanic, Brighton, Memorial and Jamaica Plain opened the schoolboy hockey season with victories at the Boston Arena today, while Dorchester and Hyde Park battled to a scoreless tie.

Latin's 4-0 win over South Boston, which brought into prominence a new schoolboy star, Ed Denney, was the most impressive of the seven games contested. Denney scored three of Latin's goals.

English pulled a victory over Boston COllege High in the last few minutes of play, while Memorial made a great comeback to beat Trade, 2-1, after trailing for the first half of the game. DeWolf's two goals turned the trick.

YOST TALKS OF GRID EVILS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 3 (AP)—Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at the University of Michigan, says he learned a lot about the so-called "evils" of college football while he was in New York this week attending meetings of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Michigan's veteran leader went East in an inquisitive frame of mind. He wanted to know what was meant by some of the terms used recently. These included "over emphasis of football," "give the game back to the students," "spectacle" and "commercialism."

Yost said he found over emphasis of football had the following explanations.

Schools, largely in the East, have training camps.

Schools begin practice in August or early September.

Too long schedules and too many games.

Overstressing of an individual by the press.

All over America on wheels.

"These," said Yost, "all are matters of administration and largely are problems of a few schools centered in an unorganized section of the country where each school wishes to do as it pleases. The coach can change all the above items of over emphasis except newspaper over-stressing of individuals or should himself be changed."

Set New Mark for Backstroke Swim

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 3 (AP)—Miss Phyllis Harding, Australian representative in the 1928 Olympiad, set an unofficial world's record for the 150-yard backstroke swim today at 1 minute 53 4-5 seconds.

BRUINS BATTLE MAROON SIX

The Bruins have a hard game ahead of them in Montreal tonight. Their brilliant play was continued against the Rangers, when far and away the feature of the evening was the startling return to form of Dutch Gainor, crafty left wing, who has been handicapped by injured legs all season.

Gainor got two goals against the Rangers and played some of the best hockey he ever has shown in a Bruin uniform.

The Bruins have not been beaten in their last seven starts, and they have dropped but one game in their last eleven. They apparently have rounded into form that is equal if not superior to the great game they flashed a year ago.

Collegiate Court Season Opens

New York, Jan. 3 (AP)—Another Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League season opens tonight in Philadelphia with a clash between Pennsylvania and Yale.

The other four league members, Columbia, Dartmouth, Princeton and Cornell, will make their season's league debut on January 10, when a three-game schedule will be played. On that night Yale will invade Ithaca to meet Cornell, Dartmouth will face Penn at Philadelphia, and Columbia will battle Princeton at Princeton.

Report Gehrig Will Get $30,000 a Year

New York, Jan. 3—A report current here says that Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, and generally hailed as the "crown prince of swat," second only to Babe Ruth as a home run hitter, will be offered a three-year contract by the Yankees at $30,000 a season.

If Gehrig gets such a contract, it would make him the second highest player in baseball. Babe Ruth leads with a salary of $80,000, followed at present by Al Simmons of the Athletics, who gets $25,000.

Several other players get salaries ranging from $17,000 to $22,000.

Spohrer Unhurt as Auto Tips Over

His auto skidded on the ice and tipped over. He was going slowly at the time. He was able to get out of the car without assistance and extricate his wife and three children. Nobody was hurt. He will be in Boston a few days.

BEATS HILDA BOEHM IN TWO SETS

Miss Katherine Winthrop of Boston succeeded to the throne formerly held by Sarah Palfrey today when she smashed her way to a victory over Hilda Boehm of Malden in the final of the National Junior Indoor Tennis Championship at the covered courts of the Longwood Cricket Club, Chestnut Hill.

The gathering that taxed the tiers at the scene of the final was amazed as the youthful Miss Winthrop drove her way through the Malden girl to a clean cut 6—3, 6—3 victory.

Miss Boehm had been seeded on top in the tournament and was favored to win. Miss Winthrop had been seeded fourth. The gallery expected Miss Winthrop to put up a strong fight but did not think her capable of overhauling the skill of Hilda Boehm.

Overpowered Miss Boehm With Powerful Stroking

But Miss Winthrop made short work of her opponent. She simply overpowered Miss Boehm with powerful strokes and at no time did Hilda show any signs of pulling through to a victory.

The triumph of Miss Winthrop was quite a surprise, for the final match was expected to reach three sets before either would submit to defeat.

In a semi-final doubles match played today Miss Mary Cutter and Miss Helen Fulton defeated Helen Jones and Virginia Arnold with great ease, 6—1, 6—3, and thus earned a place in the final bracket.

The Boehm twins, third seeded team in the tourney, stroked out a hard earned victory defeating Mary Cutter and Helen Fulton, 6—3, 6—4, at the Longwood Cricket Club covered courts.

JUNIOR SINGLES

Final

Miss Katherine Winthrop defeated Miss Hilda Boehm, 6—3, 6—3.

JUNIOR DOUBLES

Semi-Final

Miss Mary Cutter and Miss Helen Fulton defeated Miss Helen Jones and Miss Virginia Arnold, 6—1, 6—3.

Yankees to Play 33 Exhibition Games

New York, Jan. 3 (INS)—The New York Yankees will leave here for their spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., on February 20. They will play 33 exhibition games, 17 to be staged at St. Petersburg.

March 7, 8, 10, 11, with Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, Fla.; 14, with Cincinnati at Tampa, Fla.; 15 17, with Boston Braves at St. Petersburg; 18 with Cardinals at Bradenton, Fla.; 19 with Cincinnati at St. Petersburg; 20, with Boston Braves at St. Petersburg; 21, with Cardinals at Ct. Petersburg; 22, with Boston Braves at St. Petersburg; 23, with Indianapolis at Sarasota, Fla.; 24, with Philadelphia Nationals at St. Petersburg; 25, with Indianapolis at St. Petersburg; 26, with Jacksonville at Jacksonville; 28, with Montgomery at Montgomery; 30, 31, with Birmingham at Birmingham, Ala.

April 1, with Chattanooga at Chattanooga, Tenn.; 2, with Nashville at Atlanta, Ga.; 3, with Nashville at Nashville, Tenn.; 7, with Atlanta at Atlanta; 8, with Memphis at Memphis, Tenn.; 9 with Asheville at Asheville, N. C.; 11, with Columbia at Columbia, S. C.; 12, with Brooklyn at Brooklyn.

Newton Grads Win as Records Go

A powerful array of Alumni running talent clowned the tracksters of Newton high on the big high school track here, 51 to 26.

Two school records were shattered, James Colligan, high school shot-putter, smashing the record formerly held by Carl Pescosolido, now of Harvard, with a heave of 46 feet, 10 inches. The Harvard weight and dash man was second to Colligan.

In the 1000-yard run, Tom Clausen of the B. A. A. defeated Charles Hall of M. I. T., in a close race, and Clausen's time, 2:25, broke his own record for the track of 2:25 4-5.

Renault Fails in "Comeback" Bout

New York, Jan. 3 (US)—Jack Renault, a relic of the fight industry, made an unsuccessful attempt to "come back" when he bowed to Pierre Charles after a slow 10-round mixup at Madison Square Garden.

Renault, who was once the leading 1ke the man he once was, and at times showed offensives that looked as though they would send the Belgian to the resin. But they were short lived and served the Canadian to little advantage.

Bob Shawkey to Coach Last-Place Minor League Club

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 3 (INS) Bob Shawkey, a famous figure in baseball last season as manager of the New York Yankees, today signed as coach for the Jersey City club in the International League. The Jerseys, who recently changed hands, finished last in [redacted]

Shawkey, one of the game's best pitchers in his heyday, was unable to obtain a job at the Major League baseball meetings here last month. After one year as pilot of the Yankees, he was succeeded by Joe McCarthy, former manager of the Chicago Cubs.

Bob Quinn to Speak at Collins' Dinner

Pittsfield, Jan. 3—Robert Quinn, owner of the Boston Red Sox, will be the principal speaker at a testimonial dinner to be given by the Holy Name Society of St. Charles Church, tomorrow, to John (Shano) Collins, newly appointed manager of the Boston American League club.

BOTH CLUBS PLAN SHOWS JAN. 19

By JACK CONWAY

New Year's resolutions were apparently made only to be broken anyway.

And so on this third day of January, A. D. 1931, we find the Boston Garden and the Argonne A. A. in a state of war

The boxing war opened on the second day of this youthful year. It was waxing quite merry, too, with all parties interested seeming to be happy. However, it soon developed that no two could agree on the same night for a show. Jack Reddy picked the same night for a return bout between Roberto Roberti and Joe Santa.

The 19th falls on a Monday, which has been the regular Argonne Friday nights

Boxing Commission Refuses to Act

Mack called the matter to the attention of the boxing commission. The boxing czars, following their usual policy in such cases, declined to act.

In the early days of the commission, the Faneuil Club stepped in on the old Commonwealth A. A. Saturday night date with a Harry Greb–Al Reed bout. The commission ruled at that time that a holder of a license to stage boxing bouts could operate on any night of the week but Sunday or Christmas.

There have been two or three conflicts in Boston since, but on each occasion the boxing commission failed to interfere.

Golden Glove Finals at Arena on Monday

The class of the amateur boxers will compete in the finals of the Golden Glove tournament which will be staged at the Arena on Monday night under the direction of the St. Joe's T. A. Society. The survivors in the eliminations matches, which were staged during the past four weeks at Mechanics Building, will fight for first honors.

There have been two or three conflicts in Boston since, but on each occasion the boxing commission failed to interfere.

Heavyweights Will Feature Golden Glove Bouts

Interest centers on the bouts in the heavyweight division. This class will find Henry Surette of Leominster, Harry Wena of Cambridge, James McLean of South Boston and Ted Johnson of Quincy battling for the high honors. These boys have shown plenty of punching power at the amateur shows this season, and a real battle for top honors Monday night.

Al Zappala of Lawrence will clash with Mickey Bishop of Stoughton in the 160-pound class. This should be a torrid mill. Zappala and Bishop have come to the front with a rush and each boy looks as though he will later go over big in the pro ranks.

There will be contests at 112, 118 126, 135, 147 and 175 pounds and in the heavyweight division.

The new pro show in Boston will take place at the Arena on January 12, when Dick Daniels of Minneapolis and Al Friedman, Roslindale heavyweight, meet in a return bout. In their last tussle, Friedman upset the dope when he crashed through with a win.

New Rule on Handling Puck

Montreal, Jan. 3 (AP)—A new rule regarding the handling of the puck during National Hockey League games is announced by President Frank Calder. The revised regulations, which will go into effect with tonight's games, reads:

"A minor penalty shall be imposed on any player, with the exception of the goalkeeper, who catches and holds the puck momentarily while it is in the air or on the ice."

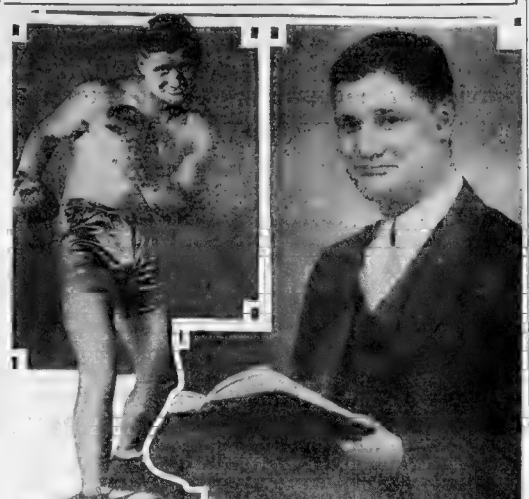
FROM RING TO ROSTRUM



PERCY FLOYD REED, bachelor of science, once Pal Reed, bachelor of biff. To help Pal celebrate the New Year rightly, New Hampshire University awarded him the coveted degree. Reed, one of the toughest sluggers and gamest fighters that ever crawled through the ropes, is the only boxer of note who ever completed his college education after leaving the ring. Many have gone from college into the ring but Percy Floyd Reed is the only boxer who was graduated from college after quitting the ring.

VAN CAMP SAYS COLLINS GREAT MANAGER

By JOE CASHMAN

Joe Cashman

One of the [illegible] was a [illegible] who played for [illegible] in Des Moines and [illegible] was [illegible] by the Sox on [illegible] recommendation," said "Shono."

"The youngster earned a tryout with Cleveland after one year in the minors. He wasn't quite ready for the big show then, but I have a strong hunch he will make the grade this time.

"He's a big, powerful boy who can play any of the infield or outfield positions and who hits well over .300 right-handed, which is a big asset these days.

"He looks better in the outfield than anywhere else, but he does quite well at first base also, and I will probably try him out at both spots.

"Just because he played for me, he will stand no better chance of being retained than anybody else unless he proves his worth, but I think the Sox picked up a coming big league star when they bought Van Camp."

Van Camp Loud in Praise of Collins

Van Camp's opinion of Collins comes to us in a letter the youngster sent us from his home in Davenport, Ia.

"John Collins is a wonderful fellow as well as a great manager, and my one ambition is to make good with the Sox so that I will be able to keep right on playing for him," writes the youngster

"I was more than pleased when I learned that the Boston club had purchased me because Collins had always praised Hub fans as the best in the country.

"If they are all as good as Collins, they must be great."

He broke into pro ball under Collins at Des Moines back in 1927. He reported as an infielder and was placed at third base. He didn't look so good at the hot corner, so Collins shifted him to first base and later to the outfield.

In 1928 he played first base all season and did as well that Cleveland bought him and he played the last few weeks of the season with the Indians.

The following spring, however, he was ordered to report back to Des Moines and he was placed on first base. Again he failed to hold his own in this berth and he admits that season was his worst ever.

Last season Collins returned as manager of the club and put Van Camp back in the outfield, where he proved a star from the start to the finish of the race, hitting .344 and fielding sensationally.

The kid is 25 years of age, weighs 176 pounds, is six feet tall and throws and bats right-handed.

Pal Reed K. O.'s Science to Win College Degree

By FRANK McLEAN

Pal Reed of Natick, one of the greatest middleweights to ever represent New England in the ring, has come back.

But not as a fighter, doiled out in ring togs with five-ounce gloves covering his fists of iron. Pal has returned to Boston, the city of his former boxing triumphs, as a graduate of the University of New Hampshire.

Reed was born in Minnesota, but like Jack Sharkey and Ernie Schaaf, drifted into the Hub as a member of the navy. He liked the town and established his boxing headquarters here when he received his honorable discharge from service.

There wasn't anything fancy about Reed's ring style. He was what the boys term a "club fighter." In other words, he gave the cash customers a return on their investment.

Reed Fought Six Champs in His 80-Bout Career

Four years ago nearly everyone in Boston would have spotted Pal Reed anywhere. Sport lovers knew him as one of the gamest guys who ever tugged at a hempen rope. He had fought six champions of the world. In all he took part in 80 bouts and never was guilty of bagging one of them.

The boy who fought Harry Greb three times, Mickey Walker, Tommy Loughran, Tiger Flowers, Jack Delaney, Johnny Wilson and a score of others, such as Jock Malone, Steve Latzo, Jackie Clark, Joe Eagan, Frank Moody, Jake Ahearn, Tommy Robson and Lou Tegash is still among us. Then he vanished from his friends and the sporting fraternity in order to get an education.

Pal dug in at the Harvard summer school of physical education got a diploma, put a year in at the Cleveland Preparatory School in Cleveland and then returned East to the University of New Hampshire for further education.

But the biggest battle of his life, just won, was in obtaining the degree of bachelor of science. Percy Floyd Reed 31 years old now, got his degree as a Christmas present from the University of New Hampshire.

Reed First Pro Boxer to Graduate After Quitting Ring

Reed has done more than that. He has established himself as the first professional fighter of great note to graduate from college after quitting the ring. Lots of others have gone to college and then in o the ring, but Pal Reed was the first to reverse his ambitions and attend them.

Gene Tunney was always the student but never gave up his all as did Pal Reed to get a college education. Fidel Labarba hung up the gloves and entered college but gave it up when he married and returned to the ring.

Pal Reed isn't yet satisfied with education getting. He is trying to make it possible to go after a master's degree. He has an ambition to fit himself morally and physically. He says that the only way to accomplish such is through education. He aims to get as much of it as possible.

In case you have heard the story that he is going back into the ring, he isn't! He says

"When I hung up the gloves, I hung them up forever. There will be no comebacks."

The fight for his education has been a bitter one. He furthermore admits that if it hadn't been for the help given him by Mr. E. G. Baum of West Central st., Natick, that he would have been a failure at the outset.

FINE POLO TILTS AT ARMORY

Westwood Polo Club and 101st Field Artillery malletmen will meet in a crucial class A tilt tonight at Commonwealth Armory.

As each of the trios in the Boston Indoor League tournament is keen to capture the championship trophy the fans may expect plenty of action.

But the Artillery veterans, Gen Daniel Needham, Col. Charles Furbur and Lieut. Theodore Pitman, will get two goals handicap to start with, and will rely on their excellent teamwork to pile up the goals.

DUSEK DEFEATS VAKTUROF

A crowd of 8000 saw the rugged Dusek wear his rival down under a furious attack. Dusek employed the flying tackle as well as a series of body slams.

Dusek then opened up with a series of flying tackles. He crashed Vakturof to the mat under his terrific drives. He then lifted the Russian into the air and slammed him to the mat. Ivan landed on his back and was in a dazed condition. Dusek pounced on him for the winning fall.

McMillen is Winner Over Lumberjack

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois star, won from George Hills, Wisconsin lumberjack, in the semifinal. McMillen counted with the winning fall in 21m. 19s. A series of flying tackles gave McMillen the victory.

Karl Pojello, Lithuanian wrestler, won from Frank Bruno, Polish grappler, in 10m. 15s. A double arm lock and roll gave Pojello the victory.

"There has been a scheme afoot [illegible] back to Max Schmeling [illegible] elimination of Sharkey so that Max Schmeling might meet Young Stribling, his hand-picked opponent, in a finish bout," asserted Buckley.

"Madison Square Garden Corporation has a contract with Schmeling which requires mutual consent to name his opponent. The German, who still remembers the decision Boking he received from Stribling in Berlin last June, will consent to meet only Stribling."

Buckley Turns Loose Barrage of Charges

"Sharkey agreed to box [illegible] in New York [illegible] without complications [illegible] could [illegible] one spot on. He developed [illegible] $50,000 and turned [illegible] down. Carey Disclaims Any Knowledge of "Plot"

William F. Carey, president of the Garden, today disclaimed any knowledge of a "plot" against Sharkey. He pointed out that any organization had a contract with the Boston gob and was only too anxious to put on a Schmeling or Sharkey-Stribling bout

Answering Buckley's charges Carey declared that the demand for a Schmeling-Sharkey match at present. If Jack is regarded as the outstanding contender next spring, Schmeling would be willing to fight him in June, he said. And so the battle of gab goes merrily on

Scepter

The scepter is a more ancient emblem of royalty than the crown. In the earlier ages the scepters of kings were long walking staves, afterward carried and made shorter. Tarquin, the Roman, first used the scepter.

She Lets Him Kiss Her Without 'Teasing'

—By BEATRICE FAIRFAX—

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you want a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I read your column daily and see how you help other girls with their problems and I would appreciate it if you would help me. I am a girl eighteen years old and am very fond of a boy nineteen. When I go out with him he always talks about other girls. One girl whom he calls his old girl friend hardly ever let him kiss her but as he says he had to tease her. Now, when he asks me for a kiss I usually let him have it. Do you think he would like me better if I made him tease me for one or if I gave him one whenever he asked for it?

Beatrice Fairfax

MADAM X.

Dear Madam X: It usually seems that boys like the things that are hard to get. It makes them feel strong and superior to have to take things by force. Nothing is more trying than to listen to long discourses about some former girl friend, and if you like him well enough to stand for it you have my sympathy.

Tangle of Emotions

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in a distressing tangle of emotions and I ask your advice. I am a girl 17 years old and a senior in high school. A man who is 35 years old begs me to marry him and he can give me a good home and social position. But although I like him I do not love him and I don't know what to do. I have never been in love and do not believe in marrying for love since. What shall I do? My parents are unaware of this attention I am receiving so I cannot consult them.

DIBBY.

Dear "Dibby": You are too young to consider marriage just now, and certainly it would be a mistake to marry a man so much older than you are. Consider what it would mean. Here you are, just finishing school and getting ready to have a good time. You want to meet a lot of boys and girls, go to dances, fall in love and out, and altogether live the normal life of a young girl. This man of 35 has gone past his boyhood. He is ready to settle down, and perhaps have children. That would mean giving up your life, which you have a right to, to him and a family. The best thing you can do is to take the matter up with your parents. Don't sell your youth for social position and a good home.

Look for Others

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you kindly help me to solve this: I am a girl of 19 years and like a fellow of 24 very much. He was on here to be near his work. We have been very friendly to each other and I have been out with him a few times, but couldn't go very often and had to work nights. He had to go back home. This was about a month ago, and had promised me he would write. I have been waiting to receive a letter from him ever since. Thank you

E. C.

Dear E. C.: It is not always possible for good friends to stay together. The necessity of earning a living is one of many a young man away from the girl he is interested in. As long as he hasn't written and tried to make any permanent arrangement, I should look around for other boy friends.

Tangle of Emotions

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in a distressing tangle of emotions and I ask your advice. I am a girl 17 years old and a senior in high school. A man who is 35 years old begs me to marry him and he can give me a good home and social position. But although I like him I do not love him and I don't know what to do. I have never been in love and do not believe in marrying for love since. What shall I do? My parents are unaware of this attention I am receiving so I cannot consult them.

DIBBY.

When Icy Winds Chap Skin

Safe and Effective Beauty Lotion

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

IVE MADE some changes in the formula of our pet skin tonic and I want to tell you about them today.

This tonic is made by adding together equal parts of lemon and witch hazel. It is used as any other skin tonic—to purge the skin. It comes next as the last trace of cleansing cream after the obviously excess cream has been removed.

For the normal skin or skin which is inclined to oiliness this skin tonic proved ideal, but we found that a slight chapping or roughness occurred when it was used on a dry skin. It was to overcome this that glycerin was first added to the formula.

Those of you who continue to use this tonic during the winter months can make it into a splendid base for make-up by adding glycerin and rose water to the original formula. I'll set down the formula again.

Add two heaping teaspoonfuls of boric acid crystals to one pint of boiling water. Stir constantly until the crystals have dissolved. When cold add one pint of witchhazel to the boric acid water. This is the formula for the original tonic and it may be used as a skin freshener, to remove cream, and as a mild stimulant for toning up the skin.

If your skin is dry you already have added one teaspoonful of glycerin to your boric acid and witchhazel solution so all you need to do is add a teaspoonful of rose water, and that is that.

After cleansing the skin and removing the excess cream, saturate a pad of cotton with the tonic and gently pat this gently over the skin, always following the upward and outward movements recommended. Use this tonic as long as the pads of cotton show signs of soil after being passed over the skin, and then saturate a new one until the last pad is as clean as it was before using. Then work the lotion on the face gently into the skin by smoothing the tips of the fingers over it.

When the tonic has been worked into the skin, apply your rouge and powder.

TODAY'S WINNER

Country Doctor (superintendent of Sunday school)—Now, children, can you tell me what we must do in order to get to heaven?

Bright Boy—We must die.

Bright Boy—Get sick and send for you.

WILLIAM N. HURWITZ,

HONORABLE MENTION

Small Boy—But, mother, what's the use of spending my money when it rains?

LOUISE VESTUTE,
86 Bowdoin st., Winthrop.

Mother (to small boy)—Richard, didn't I tell you not to play over there in that dump, where all the dirt is. Don't you know there are germs there and you'll get sick?

Richard—But, mother, I don't play with the germs.

Towels That Decorate the Bathroom

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—Modern architects and designers to the contrary, white bathrooms are still in fashion. Indeed, it's the white bathroom that makes the finest background for those good-looking colored designs that you find in all the newest bath equipment.

That doesn't mean you can't use colored linens if your bathroom is painted or tiled in color. Of course you can. The trick then is to choose the right colors —the ones that harmonize with the color of the walls.

In the white tiled or painted bathroom, any color idea that suits your fancy can be smartly used. And modern bath equipment—bath towels, bath mats and wash cloths—certainly makes the bathroom a good looking room.

The bath towel most in fashion is the very simplest kind—white with a two or three or four-stripe border in color. One is sketched.

Wide Borders

Next most popular in fashionable bathrooms is the towel with the wide border, like the one sketched at the lower right. This might be a white towel with a colored border. Or it might be a two color towel—white on one side and a color on the other—with the border in reverse.

Towels like this look fine in any bathroom and with any other towels. They are so simple they can't clash with anything. And that's why they make a fine basis of your towel supply.

Now then—just to give a little variety, or for special guest use —a towel or two with an interesting design is a good thing to have in the linen closet.

You'll never know how good looking simple dots and diamonds can be till you have a bath towel in one of these designs next to your plain striped ones. At the upper right one is shown—a white background with a colored dot and conventional scalloped border.

Of late much interest is being taken in bath towels that have some definite relation to water in their design. Things that make you think of swimming and sailing when you're in the tub.

Sea Motifs

On-the-sea motifs are equally in fashion. And here's where you find your adventuring ships tossing on the briny, and the simple wave and bubble designs that are so picturesque.

The colors you find in these most-in fashion bath towels are the deep pastels — peach, blue-green and mauve. Favorite combinations of colors are yellow and green, and green and mauve.

Hand Towels

When it comes to linen hand towels, all white is still most in fashion. And that's because it's most practical. It can be boiled if necessary.

The designs are simple. End borders all around borders—and one border of all if the towel has an allover design.

We've had illustrated at the upper right a towel with simple conventional, rather modernistic design that goes all around the edge. Just below is an illustrative of the simple classic border that's so much in fashion—the Greek key design with a floral wreath to encircle the monogram.

Monday: Amos Parrish writes

BROKEN RAINBOWS

By May Christy

she peered over the edge of the balcony and saw him standing within a couple of yards of her! His back was turned to her but she had a clear glimpse of his profile. He was speaking to a beautiful young woman.

"You'll dine with me tonight!" Gigi was begging of the lovely vision. "I've come back specially early from Paris to see you-u-u-u!"

But worse was yet to come. Cowering behind the balcony Gracie distinctly heard Gigi say, in a mock-romantic, slightly altered tones:—"I've now got to squeeze some real money out of the old woman!"

God! whom could he mean? Never herself? Oh, Gigi . . !

"Are you returning to that middle-aged lady who's so gone on you?" inquired Gigi's companion, giggling.

"You. The rich American widow," said Gigi coolly. "If she kicks up a fuss, I have a whole lot of love-letters from her that I can use, to force her to shell out . . . letters she wrote me while I was in Paris!"

Fooled Her

Gigi Was a Wolf

How Wilda got her almost fainting mother out of the Folkers, and how never afterwards quite knew. It was too terrible! Wilda had overheard Gigi, too . . .

To Wilda what she had subconsciously feared, but never dared put into words even to herself, was now all too plain.

He had fooled poor Gracie shockingly for weeks . . . and now, just like ha kind, he was going to bleed her to the limit!

Incredible!

Hadn't they read a story in the papers only the other day, about a married woman who became infatuated with just such a young blackguard? She'd written him compromising letters, and when she discovered what he was it was too late! She was forced to pawn her jewelry to keep him quiet . . . and when that was done, and the hush-money gave out, he threatened to go to her husband! Worn out by his demands and terrified to death she finally had committed suicide!

That had happened within five miles of Cap d'Antibes . . . and now . . . now it had come right home to the Gardners . . .

"He didn't mean you. There are lots of American widows here in Juan," suggested Wilda desperately. Gracie was shaking so . . . and looked so deathly white . . . was she going to faint or go into hysterics?

"Mr. Gordon will be waiting for us. You must come, mother."

"Sh-sh, dear. Don't speak so loud."

"But everyone'll know! The whole of Juan will know!"

"No. You say nothing. Well pretend that we've . . . that we've . . . that we've . . .

One Prophesy That Has Not Proved Wrong!

Sons as Banking Partners; Einstein's Discovery; Labor Dividend

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Jan. 3.—Someone said in May

"A partnership in J. P. Morgan & Co. would be a logical opening for Parker Gilbert on his return after having earned a unique reputation in Europe for the handling of German reparation payments. He'll only be 32, not old enough to have worked over the dozens of Agent General for Reparation Payments when Owen D. Young withdrew."

Mitchell Bureau

B. C. Forbes

"Mr. Gilbert is a lawyer, but had financial experience as under secretary of the treasury in Washington with Secretary Mellon, who spotted his young assistant as a brilliant comer. Probably more 100,000-a-year offers will be tendered young Gilbert than have ever been proffered upon any man of his age. There isn't a law firm in America that wouldn't gladly embrace him as a partner. The chances are, however, that he will be captured by the world of finance, where the highest rewards reach astounding figures.

"Perhaps Mr. Gilbert will step into the opening created in the Morgan firm by Dwight W. Morrow's withdrawal. He was the legal luminary of the House. His thirteen years with Morgan made Morrow rich."

Mr. Gilbert, now 38, this week began as a Morgan partner, making one 1930 prophecy that hasn't proved wrong. He will be doubly valuable, first, because of his legal knowledge combined, because of his unrivaled intimacy with European conditions and problems.

One company, General Tire & Rubber, has done something unusual, of special interest to workers and other employees. It has declared an extra dividend of 4 per cent on its common stock and has set aside an equal sum "primarily to finance out-of-season sales in order to make employment more uniform all year round," President W. O'Neil explains. He added:

"It will also provide money which may be loaned to any of the employes in our regular departments who may be temporarily laid off. This money will be advanced to them through our General Tire Acceptance Corporation, one of our subsidiary companies, so that they may receive the equivalent of five days' work each week.

"As our plant is now operating fully, there will of course, be no need for such loans to our workers at this time.

"While we do not expect to take unusual risks, we expect to be able to level off our sales picture by absorbing financing costs during ordinarily dull months. This will help to spread over the winter months some of the business that always comes with a rush when warm weather arrives.

"When the directors decided to pay so extra dividend this year, they also decided that they would cut in two parts the amount available for this extra dividend, so, that workers might get as square a deal as the stockholders.

"We do not regard this as a philanthropic move. We believe that the saving in plant costs which will result will take care of the sum which we have set aside. We believe that experience will show that it has been a wise step to use a part of our extra dividend in that way if so it is possible that we may do the same thing with other dividends in the future."

Einstein has made one discovery since reaching the United States. He has found here "the joy of work and the joy of work harmoniously combined. Added to this is the spirit of ambition which pervades you; very being and seems to make the day's work like a happy child at play."

Throughout the rest of the world work is looked upon as a necessary evil, as a drab means to earning a living. Little or no pleasure is take en in the daily tasks. Everywhere exists wholly of other things—dissipation, pleasures, entertainment, athletics, travel, etc.

Here the happiest beings on earth are those who derive genuine satisfaction from their daily efforts. I look upon work as an intensely pleasant and a heroic, of life and living. We do not regard work as drudgery as slavery. Most of us would sooner work than not work have the choice. It is not so with the English, French, Italians, Latin Americans.

Proposal to remove the escalator at Forest Hills brought forth a lot of opposition and comment. No mention was made of the fact that at Forest Hills the Elevated has been providing commuters with a type of escalator found elsewhere on the system, although much needed. The Forest Hills accelerator is wide enough to allow those who insist on running to set new speed records without trouble. Those who prefer to accept an escalator at what its dictionary definition calls for.

It is true that at other stations there are stairways wide and ample for two runners, but they never elect to use them. They like to do their speeding on the escalators. The statute forbidding loafing in our subways has long been grouped among the "Blue Laws," never enforced. The stockholders of the Elevated, of whom you may become one today at a very reasonable price, do not have to worry about the "L" escalator problems or public good-will either because their "rentals," as the dividends are now politely referred to, are very well assured by the Commonwealth's pact of long age.

If gasoline use were increased in all the states as it has been in Massachusetts the past year, the oil companies would not have to curtail production. The signs point to prices which have considerably few of the people who try to keep track of every drop of gasoline they use in their cars, realize that they have been getting the black gold during the past year at very low prices which have considerably cut the cost of keeping the car rolling.

Universal Service wire yesterday carried this news

"The Clearing House figures will be issued weekly instead of daily. The decision to do so went into effect today. Excessive gambling on the figures is said to be the motive for the change."

• • •

As we recall it, the New York Clearing House months ago made its figures inaccurate by substituting ciphers for most of the numerals. And just what is excessive gambling? Most of us are unaware that the law distinguishes between gambling that is excessive and any other sort. An inference might be that the New York Clearing House was willing to tolerate a little gambling, but not "too much," on its unlimited scale. The losing Clearing House preserves a happier dignity by continuing its business as usual.

Massachusetts Bonding Insurance Company

At a regular meeting of the Directors of the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company, held this day, it was voted to pay a quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on the capital stock of the Company of $12,000 par value, payable January 15 to stockholders of record at the close of business January 5, 1931.

DONALD PALVEY, Treasurer.

STOCK PRICES ARE AGAIN ADVANCED

New York, Jan. 3—The stock market finished the week still under the influence of New Year's cheer today.

Share prices were helped by the prompt submission of the four-party eastern railway consolidation plan to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the improved tone in commodities, and by the pickup in activity reported at automobile and steel plants.

GAINS ARE MODERATE

Pivotal shares gained only moderately, few gains exceeding a point or two, but some of the volatile issues rushed up sharply, and trading was fairly active.

Last minute selling such as frequently appears at the end of the week was lacking, and final prices were around the best.

In the rails Erie gained more than 3, and Baltimore & Ohio 2. Both will be affected materially by unification of their systems, as proposed.

Pittsburgh & West Virginia, which is to be controlled by the four systems jointly, shot up 15 points. The market in that issue, however, is thin.

Lackawanna, which is allocated to the New York, Chicago & St. Louis points, Several western and southern rails were also strong. St. Louis Southwestern moved up nearly 6 points, and Illinois Central, Great Northern and Atlantic Coast Line gained 3 or more.

STEEL IS HIGHER

Such issues as U. S. Steel, Republic Steel common, Union Carbide, Texas Corporation, Standard of New York and New Jersey, International Telephone, National Biscuit, Montgomery Ward, Paramount and Warner Bros. gained a point or more. Issues up 2 and 3 included Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Republic Steel pfd., Johns Mansville and Stone & Webster. Western Union gained 5.

The vigor of the advance is ascribed in part to its technical nature. There have probably been some long standing short positions in which profit taking until the turn of the year was held up for tax reasons.

The week-end trade and business reviews were generally of a hopeful tenor, of a character to help stocks.

With freight car loadings, building contracts, electric power production, steel production, and bank clearings showing somewhat less than the expected seasonal slump, resistance to depression seemed to be developing. The week's trade for the year end was approached from a abnormally low level may have been a factor in limiting the usual decline.

Expectations that the turn of the year would bring improvement in steel mills operations seem to be bearing fruit, production having the lowest level during the Christmas week, ingot production in the Youngstown district expected to increase next week for the second successive week. Schedules indicate aggregate production in that area will move up from 37 to 39 per cent of capacity.

The better tone in the commodity markets was also encouraging.

The motor industry is stepping up operations next week, consumption of activity at the Ford plants, and the recalling of more workers by some of the General Motors divisions. A survey of the labor situation by Standard Statistics says the bottom of the decline is currently being reached.

NEW DIVIDENDS ARE DECLARED

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents on the common, payable Jan. 15 to stock of record Jan. 12.

J. J. Newberry Realty Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the 6% per cent preferred A and $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred, payable Feb 1 to stock of record Jan. 16.

Cuneo Press, Inc., declared regular quarterly dividends of 6½ cents on the common, payable Feb. 1 to stock of record Jan. 15, and $1.62½ on the preferred, payable March 15 to stock of record March 1.

Curtiss Wright to Gain for Quarter

Contrasting with the heavy losses of 1930, it is indicated that Curtiss-Wright Corp.'s consolidated operating results for the first quarter of 1931 will show an actual cash gain, and a net consolidated profit after all depreciation charges for the second quarter is anticipated. These are the expectations of Hayden, Stone & Co. as expressed in an analysis of the companys position. R. F. Hoyt, member of that firm, is chairman of the Curtiss-Wright board.

Labor M. P.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor member of the British Parliament for Middlesborough, will address the Old South Forum tomorrow afternoon on "Unemployment and Other Problems Confronting the Labor Government." She is the first woman in the United States only while Parliament has a recess. Recently she said very bluntly what she thought of Ramsay MacDonald and His Pink Friends."

GREAT FAITHS WILL UNITE TO SERVE

Plans are well under way for the conference on "Permanent Preventives of Unemployment," sponsored by the social justice committee of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the social service commission of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, which will be held in Washington, D. C., at the Hamilton Hotel, January 26-27.

The executive committee in charge of the program met in Washington during the past week to complete plans for the conference Announcement was made by the chairman of the committee that this conference will endeavor to attract thinking people who feel the necessity of determining the causes and remedies for the recurring tragedy of unemployment."

Prominent among the speakers whose names appear on the program are Dr. John R. Commons, well known economist from the University of Wisconsin, and John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, both of whom will speak at the session of the conference devoted to "Unemployment Insurance."

Hon. Robert F. Wagner, United States Senator from New York; D. J. Moserale, president of the National Unemployment League, and Edward E. Hunt of the United States Department of Commerce will discuss "Public Works and Construction Programs."

The conference opens Monday afternoon, January 26, at 2 o'clock. An evening session follows at 8. On Tuesday, January 27, there will be three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening. The evening session will be addressed by Prof. Henry Ward of New York city, Rabbi Edward L. Israel of Baltimore and Dr. John A. Ryan of the Catholic University.

The sessions of the conference will be open to the public.

BAPTIST MINISTERS

Monday morning ex-Governor Carl E. Milliken will address the Baptist ministers in Chipman Hall, Tremont Temple, on "Moving Pictures, a Servant of the Community.

CATHOLIC WOMEN

A series of addresses on great public questions to be given under the auspices of the League of Catholic Women at Emmanuel College, The Fenway, beginning Saturday, January 10, and continuing weekly until the end of February. The lecturers, Rev. John L. J. Corrigan, S. J., professor of sociology at Boston College, is well known in Boston audiences and his subject a promise to be of special interest and importance.

CHELSEA BAPTIST

The First Baptist Church of Chelsea will repeat, tomorrow evening, the great Christmas pageant which drew such a large congregation on Christmas Sunday night.

The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias and subordinate lodges of Greater Boston will attend the service, and the pastor, Rev. C. I. Wilson, will precede the pageant with a message on "Friendship." The robed chorus will render special music.

DORCHESTER MINISTERS

A general interchange of pulpits will take place among Dorchester clergymen one week from tomorrow. This custom is becoming the regular annual order and does much toward creating fellowship and community good-will.

CHRIST CHURCH.

KING'S CHAPEL.

There comes to the pulpit of King's Chapel tomorrow morning President Clarence A. Barbour of Brown University. This church observed New Year's Eve with a candlelight service. Dr. H. E. B. Speight, a former minister of King's Chapel, preached yesterday noon and also Wednesday.

Rabbi Abrams Denies Messiah Has Come

In a sermon last week, Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams stated many reasons why the Messiah and messianic prophecies had not been fulfilled. Among other things the rabbi said:

"If the Messiah had come, and this is absolutely and unequivocally denied to the Hebrew Bible's point of view, universal brotherhood would be established on earth, God's kingdom would be firmly introduced among men. While I am saying these words I can, as it were, hear the booming cannon on battlefields in various parts of the world. The advent of the Messiah was to introduce the era of peace and goodwill on earth, so we are conscious of the peace or the goodwill, even today."

Boston Shriners Off on Cruise Jan. 24

The cruise, an annual event., will be made by several hundred members of lodges throughout New England. They will visit Abau Saad Temple in the Panama Canal Zone, where a reception and a ceremonial will take place.

CHURCHES

MANY NEW YEAR ACTIVITIES FOR CHURCHES

DUDLEY ST.

What a great time the New Year is, will be stressed at both services at "Old Dudley Street" Baptist Church, Roxbury. At the 10:30 service New Year's music by the Concordo Male Quartet. At the evening service, 7:15 o'clock, a great New Year's evangelistic service will be held. All Billy Sunday hymns from the screen will be sung by a thousand people; all evangelistic music will be sung by the Dudley Street Mixed Quartet, soloists and adult chorus of 60. Pastor Brooks will preach upon the subject, "Rescue the Perishing."

SILENT SERVICE

A most unique service has been planned for Sunday evening, 7:30 o'clock, in the First Methodist Church, Temple st., Beacon Hill. It will be a "silent service," in which there will not be a spoken word. Instead of singing, the hymns will be presented through cornet, violin and organ, pictures and pantomime. Scripture and prayers will appear on the screen with organ accompaniment.

ST. STEPHEN'S

The Thursday devotions at St. Stephen's Church, Hanover st., the "Little Flower" in Boston, will have for the preacher on Thursday, Jan. 8th, the Rev. Cornelius P. Mahan of St. Peter's Church, Dorchester.

The hours of the services are: 12:20, noon-day mass; 3:30, 5:20, 7:45 p. m. Father Mahon will preach at the 5:20 and 7:45 p. m. services.

Hereafter there will be a noonday mass each novena Thursday at 12:20.

RUSSIA AND FEDERATION

The rev. George Lyman Paine, executive secretary of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches, who spent his summer vacation in Russia, has responded to 37 invitations to speak on that much-discussed country. He finds plenty to praise, and an amount of sympathetic criticism for the Russians' attitude toward religion and other time-honored institutions.

BISHOP BANCOCK

Bishop Bancock will hold a confirmation service in St. Johns Church, Auburn, Me., Sunday, Jan. 4, at 3:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m. Bishop Bancock will hold a similar service in the confirmation class at Christ Church. The visitation to the Cambridge district will be the first under the new rector, the rev. Angus William Mitchell, formerly of Washington, D. C.

COPLEY METHODIST

Dr. William L. Stidger will preach at Copley Methodist Episcopal Church on "The Need of Madmen for 1931 in World Affairs." He will discuss what America can learn from Soviet Russia for its own good, the spirit of virginal hope, marriage as the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of his famous newspaper in Boston. The Rev. Guy H. Wayne will preach on "The Thrill of Trail Blazing" at 7:30 p. m. This will be the first of a series of sermons Mr. Wayne will preach Sunday evenings during January. Prof. Houghton and his chorus choir will sing at both services, assisted by Mrs. Earl Harper, soloist.

CATHOLIC RADIO

Question Box, Rev. M. J. Ahern, S. J.

EVENING CLASSES

The second term of the Evening Classes conducted by the Young Men's Catholic Association, in the Boston College High School Building, will open on Monday evening, January 5. From present indications the enrollment in the classes will be the largest in its 21 years experience.

TREMONT TEMPLE

Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of Tremont Temple Baptist Church, and his people extend hearty New Year greetings to all and invite those who are not regular attendants upon church services to enjoy the two especially fine New Year services that will be held at the Temple tomorrow.

At 10:30 a. m. the sermon topic will be "Why Are We Here?" A communion service will follow the morning sermon. At 7:30 p. m. Dr. Brougher will preach on "Curtailed Men—Men Curtailed—Then Men?" He will also answer the following prelude questions:

1—Are women more selfish than men?

2—Are women more jealous than men?

3—Are women tougher than men?

CARDINAL O'CONNELL

"The Old Year is going—let him bear away with him all fear and cowardice. And as the young New Year enters let us bow our heads Nor to Him for 5, bears in his hands a wonderful message, the heavenly message of God's benediction. So God Bless us all in the joy of a happy New Year."

COMMON CAUSE FORUM'S TOPIC—WORLD COURT

"The World Court" is the topic announced for Sunday evening at the Common Cause Forum in Franklin Union Hall, corner Berkeley and Appleton sts., Boston. Mr. Christopher I. Fitzgerald will be the speaker.

Mr. Fitzgerald, an attorney-at-law, has devoted much of his spare time during the years when he served as assessor of the City of Boston to the study of economics and European politics.

FORD HALL

Dean Gopal Mukerji, a native Hindu, and Henry Noel Brailsford, a member of the British Labor Party, are to analyze and discuss the present situation in India tomorrow at the Ford Hall Forum this Sunday evening, January 4. No more important public question is now before the world.

Governor Carl E. Milliken of Maine will speak under the Ford Hall Folks tomorrow afternoon when he will speak on "The Movie Picture a Servant of the People."

DR. ROBERT WATSON

Dr. Robert Watson, General Secretary of the Lord's Day League of New England, will preach in the First United Presbyterian Church, Cambridge, Mass., tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. Subject: "The Gospel for the World in 1931."

He will preach in the First Presbyterian Church, Waltham, Mass., in the evening at 7:30. Subject: "Four Essentials of Christianity."

LORD'S DAY LEAGUE

Announcement is made of the annual meeting of the Lord's Day League of New England to be held Monday, January 12, at the Boston City Club at 12:15. Dr. Robert Watson will give his report for the year's work, as will various assistant secretaries representing all parts of New England.

UNION CHURCH

"Some Remarks on the American Habit of Bluffing," will be the subject of the sermon by Mr. Jump tomorrow evening in Union Church. This will accompany the illustrated drama lecture on the well-known play. "The Show Off." At the morning service, Mr. Jump's New Year's sermon will be on the topic "The Changing Fashion of the World." The communion of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated. At the Fireside Chat Hour, 5:30 noon, at 5:15 there will be a candlelight service.

SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 4.

The golden text is: "Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid." (Isaiah 12:2).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon will be the following from the Bible: "God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this: that power belongeth unto God." (Psalms 62:11).

JOHN H. HOLMES.

"If Christians were Christians!" will be the subject of an address by John Haynes Holmes at the New York city at the Boston Community Church, Symphony hall, next Sunday morning.

The service will open at 10:45. A musical program beginning at 10:30 will include selections by Sylvester Carter, baritone; Jessie Hatch Symonds, violin; Mrs. Roland M. Morse, piano, and Marjorie Gorham Glaser, organ. The service and the question period following will be conducted by Prof Clarence R. Skinner of Tufts College, leader of the church.

TRINITY

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 7 the second Trinity parish meeting of the year will be held in St. Andrew's Hall at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the missions committee of the Church Service League. Miss Robert M. Washburn, chairman. The Rev. Hugh Latimer Burleson, D.D. will speak of his work in the Black Hills and motion pictures will be shown. Mrs. Clifford D. Sawyer will serve refreshments.

A Courageous New Year

Courage is the signal for a budding year. Who knocks and rattles at the outer gate? Give the pass word; a new warden turns the lock. "Courage"—good, you may now enter in and become a member of the garrison dwelling in the castle 1931.

Courage is the pass word for a 12 months just begun. Not just the bravery to face a burglar in your room at night, nor to treat justly a bully on the street, but courage to stand up for all you know is right; courage to meet a hundred ills with eyes to front; courage to say kindly things that hurt.

For most of us there are too many fears. They rise at home and stalk us through the streets and cluster underneath the office desk. Courage is the pass word for a brand new year —then up and fight these ghosts called fear.

"Start on High"

Dr. Albert C. Dieffenbach, editor of the Christian Register and minister of the Newton Center Unitarian Church, will address the Methodist ministers in Wesleyan Hall, 581 Boylston st., Monday morning, on the subject, "Start on High." His topic is "Start on High."

Social Organizations

THROUGH the generosity of the public we are able day by day to relieve want and distress, and help the needy to self-dependence.
In 1930, with larger resources entrusted to us, we were able to reach more people. We take this means of thanking those friends, old and new, who made this possible. We also extend, both to those who have helped us carry on our work and to those who as yet have not experienced the joy of giving,

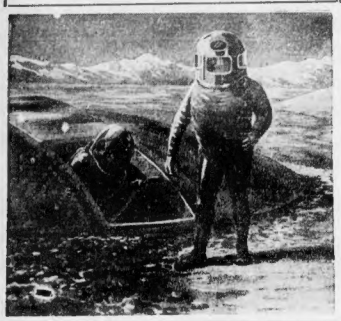
What Are We Now?

What Shall We Be Later?



SHALL WE LIVE LIKE MOLES?

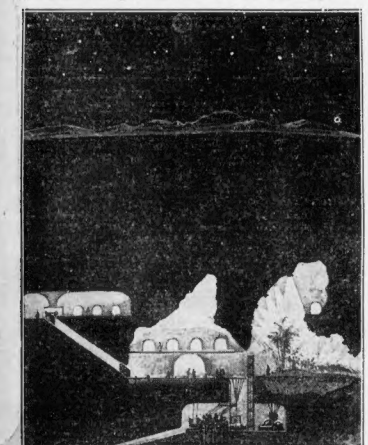
"What shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue," said Burke, when he lost his beloved son.

"We are such stuff as dreams are made on, and our little life is rounded with a sleep," said Shakespeare. He became disgusted with life, wrote his "Tempest" and retired from work too soon.

"Life is the childhood of immortality," said Goethe. "It is the gift of God, and is divine," said Longfellow.

There are ten thousand definitions of what life is, or what we THINK it is. And every one of the definitions probably is false.

How could a caterpillar tell you anything important about his life, not knowing that he is destined to be a butterfly?



LIFE IN THE BOWELS OF THE EARTH

Leaping far ahead in time, millions of years perhaps, tells us what he thinks life will be for us human beings when the world grows old.

Men will live under ground. The "door" of the deeply buried houses will be a hole in the ground, as shown in the picture at the top. And the actual residences will be far below the earth's surface, down where the earth's central fires supply warmth.

The French scientist's conception of your future residence is much like the Armenian dwellings that Xenophon visited and slept in on his memorable "Anabasis." You have read the Anabasis, of course, that marvellous bringing back of a shattered army to the shore of the beautiful Greek sea.

You will read Professor Thevenin's article in the American Weekly, distributed with tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser, a compendium of important facts concerning science and human nature.

WHY NOT BOTH?

By NELSON HARDING

The liquor ships from foreign ports
Stay twelve miles out from shore,
And where they are obliged to halt
There's lots of room for more.

Like League Court propaganda ships
They are not wanted here,
In fact, for foreign tanglements

Listen, World! -:- Children

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Our Most Paltry Asset

WE HAVE forty-five million children in the United States. More than ten million are handicapped.

Six million are improperly nourished.

Three hundred and eighty-two thousand are tubercular—

And so it goes—the marvel is that it doesn't go further!

Elsie Robinson

FOR WE AMERICANS WHO SO LOUDLY BOAST THAT CHILDHOOD IS OUR MOST PRECIOUS ASSET, ACTUALLY TREAT IT AS THE MOST PALTRY.

Our other products and investments are protected by state and federal laws. We must have permits and submit to examination at regular intervals if we keep dairy cattle. The cattle man who abuses his cows is reported to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The dairy man who sells impure milk is promptly haled before the Board of Health.

Would you permit bungling ignorant fools to make an aeroplane? Would you consider it safe to ride in an aeroplane by such persons? Of course you wouldn't!

YET ANY SENTIMENTAL INCOMPETENT CAN HAVE A BABY—AND MOST OF THEM DO.

Before you could operate your automobile you had to have a license. Before you could get that license you had to be able to answer certain questions correctly. You had to study automobiles. You had to know how they were made, how they functioned.

HOW MUCH KNOWLEDGE OF CHILDREN IS REQUIRED BEFORE A MAN AND A WOMAN ARE ALLOWED TO HAVE A BABY?

THE AVERAGE AMERICAN COUPLE, EVEN THOUGH THEY HAVE HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATIONS, DO NOT KNOW THE FACTS ABOUT THEIR OWN BODIES—MUCH LESS THE FACTS ABOUT THEIR CHILDREN'S PRE-NATAL LIFE AND BIRTH AND INFANCY.

We do not think it is "nice" to teach such facts. We feel that such knowledge will, somehow, arrive automatically, with the birth of the child. We leave it to "mother instinct"—and woe to the unlucky speaker who dares doubt that Holy Attribute. Piffle! A mother has no more instinctive knowledge about raising children properly than a mechanic has about making cars properly. If you doubt this, look at the results of much of our mothering.

Six million children are improperly nourished. This isn't because their parents lack food for them, but because their parents do not know what food they need.

We permit stupid careless girls, who couldn't earn $12 a week as clerks, to assume, without question, the role of mother—AND THEN WE PAY FOR THE CONSEQUENCES OF THEIR FOLLY IN OUR JAILS, OUR HOSPITALS, OUR REFORM SCHOOLS AND INSANE ASYLUMS.

So criminally careless are we, that it is not possible in most of our states, to obtain a divorce on the score of insanity or venereal disease. FIFTY THOUSAND PARTIALLY BLIND CHILDREN, 14,000 WHOLLY BLIND, 450,000 MENTALLY RETARDED, PAY FOR THAT CARELESSNESS!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

Some Purely Personal Piffle

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—Purely personal piffle: The odor of bananas is remindful of hospitals. Talking to a lady wearing a riding habit gives me a feeling of complete inferiority. I always enter a Pullman diner expecting somebody to recognize me. But nobody ever has. I have never been an active pallbearer.

My favorite feminine name is Hope. A favorite masculine name is Michael. I am unable to use a pen without smudging my fingers. I'm far from a goody-goody, but have a curious collection of old-fashioned scruples instilled by a grandmother. And observed from purely sentimental reasons.

Mary Boland's my favorite comedienne. Ziegfeld and I have at least one telephone quarrel a year. After the last one he sent me a bottle of perfume. One of my intimates is H. T. Webster, whom I have seen but once in five years. But we exchange insulting letters regularly. He addresses me as Oscar. I call him Harold.

I have never found a satisfactory shoe buttoner. Maybelle Manning has the most distinctive handwriting of any lady I know. The most indecipherable is that of Gilbert White, the portrait painter. I have a collection of safety razors. I was one of the first two reporters to interview the Wright brothers.

* * *

And I spoke of them as "impractical dreamers." The first city I ever visited was St. Louis, Missouri. I have been in every city of importance in America save Portland, Maine. The most expensive hotel I ever stopped at was the Whitehall in Palm Beach, Florida. My caricature is not on display at Sardi's.

The greatest reaction from anything I have written was about a Mexican sheepherder in the Cosmopolitan. The article I thought best was printed in a Sunday newspaper and caused no comment whatever. I like to sleep in old houses with wind-creaking shutters.

The only tune I don't whistle offkey is "In the Good Old Summertime." In strange hotels I eavesdrop on quarrelling in an adjoining room. And I have listened in on some dandies. The best of all was in the Biltmore in Los Angeles. I despise gambling and am a poor loser.

* * *

I received 3187 cards last Christmas. The most polished gentleman I ever met was an international crook, now spending 20 years in British gaol. Nothing makes me laugh on the screen like Buster Keaton's "dead pan." I enjoy getting to a theater early to watch the seating of the audience. But I want to be first out when the curtain falls.

* * *

When I become extremely agitated the sides of my neck break out in a rash. And my voice squeaks. I am continually stepping off curbs unexpectedly and biting my tongue. I wouldn't ride up to the top of the Chrysler building and look down for anything. Neither my wife nor I pout. We speak our minds and forget it.

* * *

I read Ed Howe's Monthly from cover to cover regularly. Hiccups always frighten me. The man who saved me from disaster in the market crash was the late Will Hoag. He predicted it three years before it happened, to the very month.

* * *

I have been introduced to Charles M. Schwab three times—at a Rotary luncheon in Indianapolis, on the promenade of Monte Carlo and in the lobby of the Ritz, New York. Still he doesn't know me, which gives you an idea of my devastating personality. I believe the most promising composer of the moment is Sidney Romberg. The show enjoyed most this winter is "Grand Hotel." The book: Arnold Bennett's "Imperial Palace."

* * *

A young lady who saw me passing through the lobby of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco wrote: "You have about as much sex appeal as Lincoln's Gettysburg speech." The only people who have hoodwinked me are those I trusted. And I've always managed to even things. I do not believe New York theaters try to check the ticket speculating evil. Night clubs depress me. I chew five cakes of gum at a time if nobody is looking.

* * *

For two years I have had a whopping standing offer for a 15-minute weekly talk over the radio. I am never without old-fashioned peppermint stick candy. My wife can always tell if I have had some unexpected windfall—the old McIntyre gleam. I'm an awful washout at dinner parties.

Some Good Resolutions

Especially Regarding New England's Needs

Colonel Benjamin A. Franklin, President of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, offers a set of New Year's resolutions for businessmen. Among them are the following:

Buy what we need.
Introduce most modern machinery and equipment, and most modern methods of production and management.
Support those organizations working in a forward-looking way for the common good.

Lest he be accused of inconsistency, let us rewrite the last resolution for him and make it read as follows:

Support those organizations working in a forward-looking way for the common good and of the especial good of New England, including Mayor Curley's plan to upbuild the port of Boston by abolishing the differential rates which advantage the port of New York to the detriment of the port of Boston.

Until the Associated Industries comes to the support of this proposal, its officers and leaders, from Colonel Franklin down, will suffer the suspicion of being a plaything of the Pennsylvania and other railroad interests which want to divert traffic away from Boston to New York and other Southern ports for the benefit of themselves, not of the businessmen and other shippers of New England.

What Are We Now?

Forever restless, the human race seeks some new sensations. The reproductions of women's photographs in this article show it. To sit up, "look pleasant," to be photographed, is no longer enough. Something more startling, to pierce the mind, and make you say "AH," is needed.

LOVELY TWINS, BEAUTIFUL PROFILES
MRS. JOHN LEIGHTON BARRAN AND THE HONORABLE MARGARET HORE-RUTHVEN

The lady lying on her back, with flowers, and photographed strangely, as though in death, angels watching, is not dead in the least. On the contrary, she is the poetess, Miss Edith Sitwell.

Perhaps it pleased her to see how she would look lying dead. Poets have queer ideas. Perhaps she only wanted to illustrate the well-known saying that this life is a "checkerboard of nights and days." You will notice that she is lying on a checkerboard.

It is not possible, in limited space, to give you any adequate idea of the genius with which the American Weekly, assembles

each week everything worth while, from the biggest forty-eight passenger airplane to the "repetition portrait" of Rosamond Pinchot, from the art masterpieces of the jungle to earth's first medical school, unearthed by Mussolini's men on the Island of Cos, built long centuries ago in honor of Aesculanius.

Read the American Weekly published with the Boston Sunday Advertiser tomorrow and every Sunday and continue your education week by week.

Capital Silhouettes

By GEORGE R. BROWN

THE UPSETTING of the Einstein theory by an entirely new conception of the universe leaves us sitting pretty—we never learned the "Einstein theory," but what a joke it is on the balance of the folks.

* * *

AND THE overthrow of the Einstein theory confirms us, moreover, in our firm determination not to learn to bound Latvia, as there is always time to do this after the next war.

* * *

Hoover's troubles mount by dozens—
First it's Norris and then Couzens.

* * *

NOT ALL of the predictions as to 1931 are optimistic, however, as we note that Director Woodcock forecasts an increasing stringency in the enforcement of the dry law.
